Worry, but No Panic—

Two men, who really can't make a fight, are insisting they will.

Chou En-lai has reaffirmed his intention to recapture Formosa, Chiang Kai-shek has said that the island of Quemoy, close to the Chinese mainland, will be defended.

Now, Chou, without a navy, has not the slightest chance to storm Formosa and capture it so long as the United States Navy protects it.

And Chiang, without United States naval and air support in great quantity, cannot defend Quemoy or move toward the mainland.

He is up against a hard fact, but, so is the United States. Chiang has become, unhappily, a factor in our domestic politics. For him there is one possible escape. He has a very real chance of involving the administration in the Straits fighting, with dire political results for that administration. Or he can do it domestic damage, if they abandon him.

Dilemma

Chiang is well aware of the fact the Eisenhower administration is well hung on the horns of this dilemma. He may be expected to exploit it to the fullest.

In fact, he already has done so.

Chiang announced the islands of Quemoy and Matsu, hard by the mainland, would be defended by the United States. (These islands guard Chinese ports and enable the Nationalists to harass shipping in and out of them.) This was a typically shrewd move by a clever player of this sort of game. It forced an embarrassed, and privately annoyed United States to say Chiang was in error. We have not agreed to protect those islands except under "certain circumstances."

It is, in fact, a very unhappy administration.

The American public doesn't yet realize that Chiang, for example, had never occupied the Tachen islands for defense until urged, and assisted, to do so by the Eisenhower administration.

This was when it was preparing to repudiate the Democratic policy of containment and "unleash Chiang."

Defenses were installed, U.S. advisers were stationed there in considerable numbers. This was at the time the policy was "everywhere to roll back communism."

Change

Events wrought their inevitable change. It became obvious that an invasion of the mainland was not possible save by cumulatively huge commitments by the United States. The administration then had to make an about-face.

But through the years Chiang had been made, chiefly by a few anti-Eisenhower Republicans, an integral part of our domestic politics. So, the Republican administration could not tell the people the full truth. It could not say it had unleashed Chiang, and had, as preparation for it, demanded and assisted in the occupation of the northerly Tachen islands.

It was a return to the old Democratic—Truman policy of containment of communism. But, because of domestic politics, it was not possible to say so.

Since we are all so directly bound by the issue, no partisan rejoicing is indicated. The welfare and security of the nation are at stake. But, for the Eisenhower administration there is no escaping the fact it is impaled on the horns of a dilemma which has domestic and international political horns.

There is not as much at stake in the Formosa Straits as there was in either Korea or Indochina. A great world war is unlikely to blow up in those turbulent waters. But, there is a very real chance we will become involved in an isolated war of defending the islands and making counter-attacks on Chinese mainland air bases. The President has said he will not order all-out war—but merely pursuit of hostile sea and air craft, and retaliation against their bases.

That would be a steady, slow blood-letting.

So there is worry—deep and somber—but no cause for panic.

Footprints Shown Fuller Vanished, Phenix Man Says

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 18 (AP)—A former Phenix City police sergeant testified today that footprints found near where A. L. Patterson was shot to death appeared to have been tampered with after he showed them to Albert Fuller.

Another witness, a convict who was sent to prison during the Phenix City vice cleanup, identified Fuller and Arch Ferrell as two men seen near the slain man's office just before the shooting.

Fuller was chief deputy sheriff at the time and Ferrell was Russell County prosecutor. Fuller is on trial, charged with first degree murder.

Patterson won the Democratic nomination for Alabama attorney general 17 days before the slaying. The state contends his campaign pledge to rid Phenix City of vice led to his death.

Those were the highlights of today's testimony before court adjourned until 9 a.m. tomorrow.

The ex-policeman, Walter L. Sanders, also said he saw the chief deputy leave a cafe about 25 minutes before the killing.

The 35-year-old defendant has said he was in the Russell County jail at the time of the murder and had been there for some time.

Sanders testified he found "a good set of footprints" in soft dirt behind Patterson's office building shortly after the murder. He showed them to Fuller, he said,

Cravey's Small Loan Project Passed as General Assembly Closes Harmonious Session

Sen. Millican Again Raps 'Lobbyists'

By M. L. ST. JOHN

The Georgia Legislature closed a harmonious 40-day session at 6:36 p.m. Friday, after approving a controversial small loan bill supported by State Insurance Commissioner Zack Cravey and small loan firms.

The 1955 session ended on the same theme as did the 1953 session. The closing nights of both sessions found Atlanta Sen. Everett Millican, who bitterly opposed Cravey's proposal, assailing "lobbyists" and "loan sharks."

A complete list of statewide bills passed by the Legislature this session is published on Page 3. Other Legislative stories are on Pages 3 and 13.)

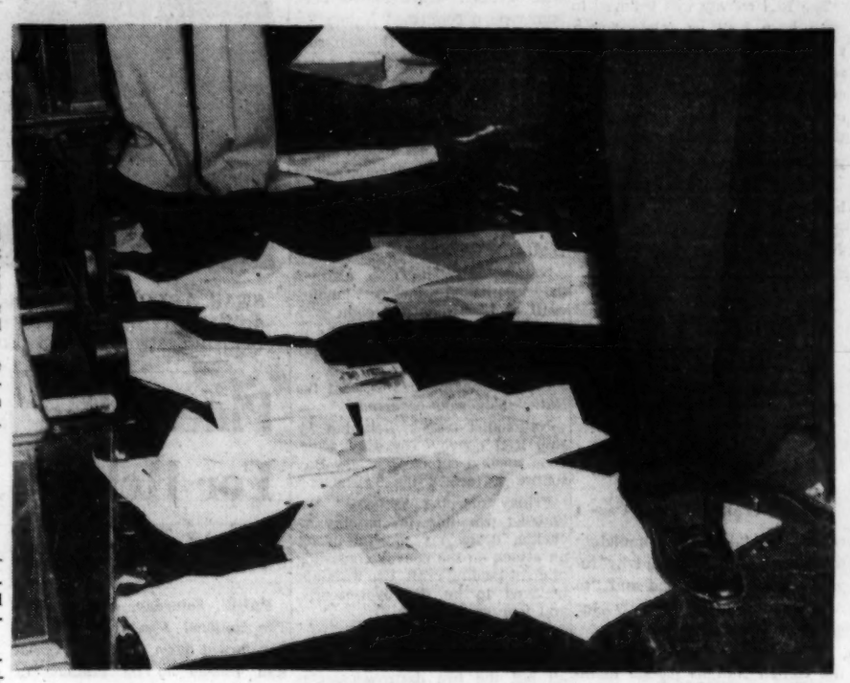

The Legislature approved almost every respect of Gov. Griffin at this, the start of his six-year administration. The governor appeared before the Senate and House to express his appreciation.

Bills left hanging when the session ended can be considered next January, under a resolution adopted this time. Some legislators still saw a possibility of a special tax session in June.

On its closing day, the Legislature increased the tax on king-size cigarettes, restoring a price-fixing provision to the cigarette act; killed a home rule bill, but set up a home rule study committee; created a pension system for firemen; killed a bill which would have set up a Communist-hunting division in the State Patrol, and rejected a proposed change in the Georgia Literature Committee's powers.

The small loan bill would create a Small Loans Division in the Insurance Department, and

Ike Whips Trade Bill Past House

By ALLEN DRURY
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—President Eisenhower today threw the full weight of his personal prestige behind House passage of an unmodified reciprocal trade bill.

He won by seven votes.

The test came on a motion by Rep. Daniel A. Reed, Republican of New York, to send the bill back to the House Ways and Means Committee with directions that it sharply limit the President's tariff-cutting powers.

The House beat the motion 206 to 199.

It then went through the formality of passing the unchanged bill and sending it to the Senate. That vote was 295 to 110.

The vote on Reed's motion was the first real test of the Eisenhower leadership in the Democratic-controlled 84th Congress.

Virginia's Sen. Byrd, in Atlanta, predicts Senate passage of trade program. Page 8.

It found the President supported by 140 Democrats and 66 members of his own party.

One hundred and nineteen Republicans defied his wishes. They were joined by 80 Democrats.

On final passage, 186 Democrats and 109 Republicans voted for the bill. Voting against it were 75 Republicans and 35 Democrats.

The showdown came after the President, through his House lieutenants, had tried to get Mr. Reed to agree to a compromise on his proposal. The New Yorker rejected it at once: The House,

Ruse in Red Ban-Bomb Plea Is Spotted by Ike

MOSCOW, Feb. 18 (AP)—The Soviet Union, which claims it leads the world in hydrogen bomb production, proposed tonight that all nations destroy all atomic and hydrogen weapons.

(In Washington, American officials said today the proposal to destroy all nuclear weapons and limit armed forces appears completely unacceptable.

(They said it would give Russia a vast military superiority over the West. It also would rule out rearmament of Germany and Japan and any Southeast Asia buildup, they said.

(These officials said destruction of all atomic arms would destroy the balance this country's nuclear stockpile now provides against Russia's mass armies.

(The State Department declined public comment until it receives and reads the full text of the Soviet proposal.)

The proposal to do away with mass destruction nuclear weapons was coupled with a call for limiting armed forces at their present levels.

It came about one hour and 15 minutes after the United States exploded an atomic bomb in the Nevada testing grounds, near Las Vegas. It was the 33rd nuclear explosion by the United States.

(President Eisenhower and other high U.S. officials have repeatedly urged world control of atomic and hydrogen weapons with an international inspection system to make certain control agreements are adhered to.

(However, no Americans have proposed destruction of A-bombs or the A-bomb triggers of hydrogen weapons.)

The Russian proposal today was part of a Soviet Foreign Ministry "disarmament" statement.

It asked the nations of the

'Small' Air Drop Opens Atomic Tests

LAS VEGAS, Nev. Feb. 18 (AP)—The first atomic bomb test of the 1955 winter-spring series of nuclear tests exploded at noon today over the Nevada proving grounds in a "small" air drop over the test site.

A giant bomber from the special weapons center at Kirtland Air Force Base in New Mexico was the means used to deliver the atomic bomb to the Yucca Flat testing area.

It was the 32nd nuclear explosion on the Nevada desert and the 33rd within continental United States.

The explosion was visible in Las Vegas as a slight bright flash in the sky but the sound of the blast could not be heard here.

Observers who had witnessed most of the previous detonations on the desert site estimated that the explosion had the effectiveness of 5,000 tons of TNT in contrast with the postponed tower shot which was expected to detonate a force equal to 50,000 tons of TNT.

Reports from the test area said there was no ground damage and that within minutes after the bomb was dropped all traces of the test were gone.

Price-Fixing Of Cigarettes Wins Okay

By ALBERT RILEY

Although the Georgia Supreme Court has ruled four times that price-fixing is unconstitutional, the Legislature passed a bill Friday that will put a floor under cigarette prices.

The action came just before adjournment as the House finally won out in a bitter dispute with the Senate over the price-fixing provision.

Gov. Griffin signed Friday a bill that makes it a misdemeanor to throw trash on the public highways.

The bill's primary purpose was to revise the state's cigar and cigarette tax laws so as to bring in an estimated additional million dollars annual revenue.

OTHER PROVISION

But it contained a provision prohibiting dealers or distributors from selling cigarettes below cost. And it empowered the revenue commissioner to determine the cost price.

The Senate amended the bill Thursday to strike out that price-fixing provision. But the House refused to accept the amendment Friday.

When the Senate refused to budge from its position, the bill twice went to a conference committee which twice recommended that the Senate yield and let the price-fixing provision stay in.

YIELDS TO PRESSURE

The Senate rejected the first recommendation, 23 to 20, but finally yielded to administration pressure, 35 to 4, when floor leader Howard Overby warned that failure to pass the bill would cost the state $1,000,000.

House floor leader Denmark Groover Jr. and Rep. Frank Twitty of Mitchell, led the fight to retain the price-fixing provision over vigorous objections from Sens. Everett Millican of Atlanta, and Owen Page Jr. of Savannah. Twitty said Gov. Griffin wanted the bill passed that way, but the governor said he was not committed to the price-fixing provision.

Legislature Votes Raises In City Pay

By BERT SPENCER

A 5 per cent salary increase for 58 high Atlanta officials in contained in the Fulton County "amnibus bill" passed Friday in the General Assembly.

Neither the mayor nor members of the board of aldermen would be included in the pay raise.

Ralph A. Huie, city finance committee chairman, expressed amazement that "all city department heads and a few chosen employes would get salary raises totaling in excess of $25,000 a year."

He said that in an effort to keep Atlanta's finances on an even keel he would ask the aldermanic board to pay the ordered salaries for one month only and then revert to the old salary schedules.

He said it is his understanding the raises were voted for a month, leaving the mayor and the aldermanic board to continue them or revert to the old schedule.

"It seems futile to try to keep a sound budget if the Legislature is going to attempt to fix salaries which should be the prerogative of the mayor and the aldermen, who at least in theory are familiar with the duties and responsibilities of their employes," said Huie.

He called on the public to urge aldermen to support his proposal to revert to the old schedule.

The total of the raises, including a new $7,500 position of deputy

Atlanta, Fulton Survey Of Schools Is Okayed

The General Assembly approved Friday a strengthened commission to investigate the Atlanta and Fulton County school systems.

The commission will operate on a $20,000 budget during its 10-month study. Originally the commission was to be allowed only $10,000.

Simultaneous with the assembly action, the Fulton County legislative delegation postponed action to put the Atlanta school system on an independent financial basis until the investigation is completed.

The assembly also raised the tax rate limit on Atlanta school levies from seven to eight and a half mills. This will provide only half of the approximately $2,000,000 in additional revenue requested for this year.

The assembly also abolished the tax rate limit on the general city government in Atlanta. This move was opposed by many business leaders who had requested a financial study of the government.

Devereaux McClatchey, president of the Atlanta Board of Education, said the board would meet soon to revise its proposed "budget B."

The investigative commission would be composed of one member of the legislative delegation and five citizens appointed by the delegation; the president of the boards of education of Atlanta and Fulton County, and the immediate past president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

School Chiefs Rap Ike Bill, Senators Told

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP)—The Senate Labor Committee studying President Eisenhower's school-building program was told today that chief education officers in 31 of 33 states polled were utterly opposed to most or all of the bill.

Dr. Edgar Fuller, executive secretary of the Council of Chief State School Officers, read into the record a blast of criticism he said he had received by telephone, telegraph and letter from the 31 state educational chiefs. Officials of the other two states—Nebraska and Indiana — reported they were against federal aid to education on principle and that if states exerted themselves sufficiently it would not be needed.

A Missouri official called the program "totally inadequate" while a Montanan called it "utterly useless" to most states.

But Sen. Allott (R-Colo), a member of the committee studying the President's program, drew from Dr. Fuller an acknowledgment that the replies did not necessarily reflect the view of state governors or state legislatures.

Allott said that Gov. McKeldin of Maryland was recently quoted as being in "complete accord" with the President's school aid bill.

SCHOOL CRISIS IN GEORGIA

'Baby Boom' Assures Problem For Colleges in the Years Ahead

(This is the seventh in a series of eight articles on Georgia's school crisis.)

By MARJORY SMITH

When Georgia's unprecedented "baby boom" finally hits institutions of higher learning over the state—

"Brother," moaned one worried educator, "it's going to be rough!"

Colleges and universities in this state are already having financial woes.

Dr. Harmon Caldwell, chancellor of the University System, just the other day warned members of the Georgia Legislature, "The Board of Regents can no longer operate the University System and its institutions satisfactorily on the amount of money it now receives from the state!"

College enrollment in Georgia and over the nation now is comprised of young people born in a period when birth-rates were relatively low.

Yet this year the Atlanta Division of the University of Georgia, which reports the largest university enrollment in the state, has 5,873 students registered.

That may not sound large in a day when statistics are counted in the millions and billions, but the Atlanta Division's current enrollment is more than the combined population of Barnesville and Austell.

Atlanta Division students number more persons than live in Buford and Jackson.

That's this year. Fifteen years from now? "It is probable that by 1970 college enrollments in Georgia, if facilities are available, will be 75 per cent above the present level," Caldwell said.

One out of every four youngsters in Georgia and the nation now seeks a college education. The day is fast approaching, educators predict, when half of our high school graduates will go on to institutions of higher learning.

Georgia boys and girls who want a college degree should not be turned away for lack of room, educators feel. The youngsters have a right to the increased opportunities and wider horizons higher education brings.

From a financial standpoint alone, a college degree is important to today's citizens. A Kiplinger Washington newsletter recently stated

Falling of Twin Gavels Greeted by Rebel Yells

By CELESTINE SIBLEY

Twin gavels in the hands of Senate President Ernest Vandiver and House Speaker Marvin Moate fell simultaneously at 6:35 p.m. Friday to end the 40-day session of the General Assembly.

With the doors between the chambers open and the two leaders facing each other across the Capitol rotunda the ancient ceremony of sine die adjournment was enacted. Rebel yells, cheers, applause and a shower of old paper went up as both officials made their final bows and ran from their respective platforms.

The House had been ready for adjournment since 5 p.m., awaiting only the reports of committees in conference with Senate members. While they waited they exchanged sentimental presents, compliments and preliminary farewells.

In the Senate the transaction of business persisted until the last few moments when members took the floor to commend Vandiver, the clerk, George Steward, and staff members for their services.

In the midst of laugh-getting resolutions and hijinks, the House gave way to the self-styled "back-seat boys," leaders of the previous administration who "guessed wrong" in last summer's gubernatorial campaign. They presided over the gift swapping.

George Smith of Emanuel County, speaker pro tem during the Talmadge administration, replaced Speaker Marvin Moate to emcee the festivities. Frank Twitty of Mitchell County, floor leader for six years, took the floor microphone and passed out gifts to 15 persons, including Speaker Moate and the present floor leader, Denmark Groover.

21 Red Ships, Sub Sunk, Chiang Says

1,600 Troops Said Lost As Navy, Planes Blast Convoy

TAPEI, Formosa, Saturday, Feb. 19 (AP)—The Nationalists claimed today their biggest victory since being forced off the mainland—a submarine and 21 ships of a Chinese Red troop-carrying convoy sunk yesterday by warships and planes.

Possible loss of more than 1,600 Red soldiers was implied in the claim that eight Communist landing ships went down 15 miles off Chekiang Province during nearly 12 hours of steady attack 120 miles northwest of Formosa.

The Red convoy was believed to have been bent on reinforcing a garrison recently slipped into Taishan Island some 40 miles south of Nanchishan, the Nationalists' northernmost outpost since evacuation of the Tachens.

BLISTERING ACTION

Nationalist warships opened the blistering action at 7:50 a.m. Friday—6:50 p.m. (EST) Thursday. Nationalist planes joined in at 11:45 a.m. and kept at it at least until 6 p.m.

The Nationalists claimed this toll:

A submarine, nationality not specified, dive-bombed and sunk southwest of the Taishans at 3:50 p.m. Friday. (There have been numerous unconfirmed Nationalist reports of up to 200 Russian submarines in Far Eastern waters.)

Warship "kill"—Seven landing craft and three gunboats of between 200 and 300 tons; also an 8th landing craft set ablaze.

Plane "kill"—A landing craft of 1,500 tons; 1 gunboat of 100 tons; another of unspecified tonnage; and 8 motorized junks.

DAMAGE VESSELS

Nationalist pilots also claimed they damaged another landing craft of 1,500 tons and eight gunboats, destroyed 8 barracks on Taishan and blew up several supply dumps.

Chronologically, this is what the Nationalists said occurred:

Nationalist planes spotted a 14-ship Red convoy Thursday afternoon moving out of Wenchow Bay southwest toward the Taishans.

Friday morning "several" Nationalist warships, presumably including destroyers, moved in for an attack on the convoy consisting of eight landing craft, two warships believed to be destroyer-escorts, and four gunboats.

BIG GUNS HIT

The warship guns scored hits on all but the two destroyer-escorts and a gunboat.

At 11 a.m. Nationalist planes began working over "remnants" of the convoy, plus others which appeared in the same area.

The planes also went after the Taishans which had been called "vacuum islands" by the Nationalists because neither side for a time had made use of them, except briefly by scouting parties. The Reds apparently moved in on them recently.

world to "destroy completely the stocks of atomic and hydrogen weapons" they had and "to use atomic material only for peaceful purposes."

The Russians also proposed all the United Nations pledge themselves not to increase their armed forces or equipment higher than the Jan. 1, 1955, level.

The government announcement was handed to all correspondents in Moscow at approximately midnight (4 p.m. EST).

The Soviet asked the U.N. governments not to increase their military budgets over the 1955 level.

DISARMAMENT MEET

The Soviet proposal was made in preparation for the reconvening in London Feb. 25 of the United Nations subcommittee on disarmament.

Another provision of the proposal was for the establishment of "appropriate international control for supervision" of the implementation of the suggestions.

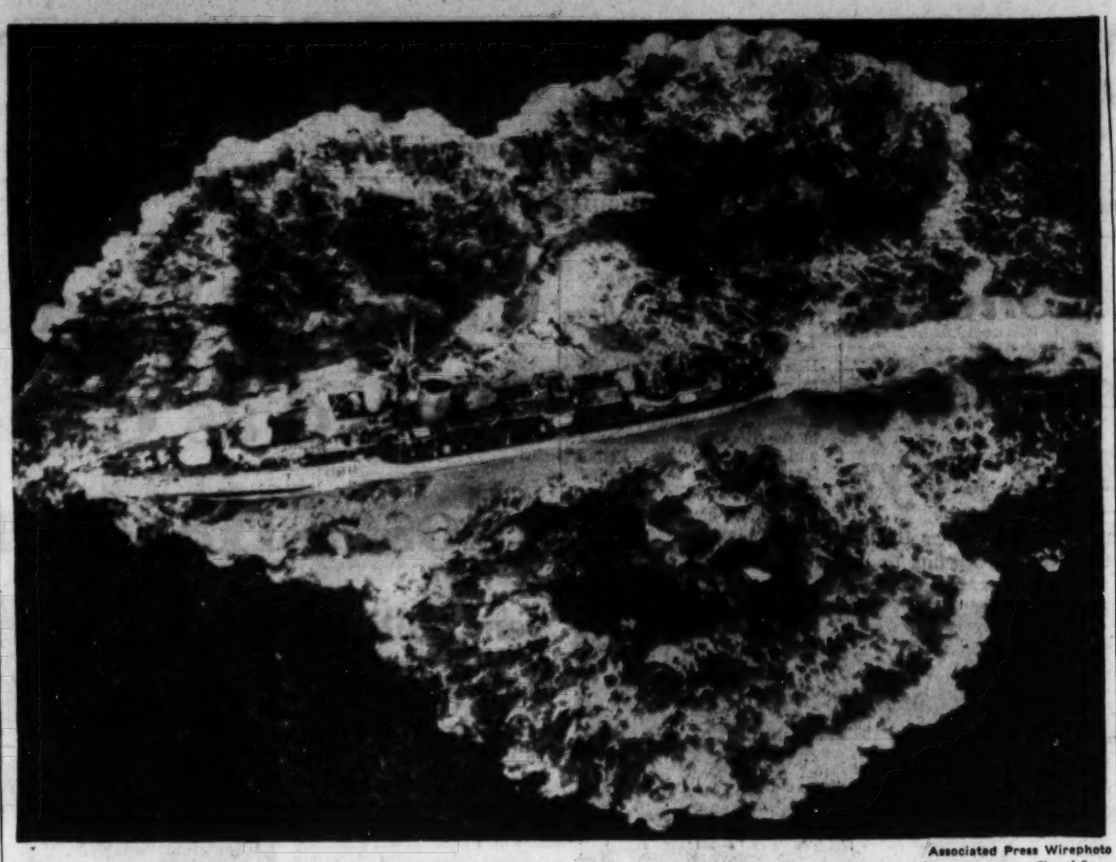

Russia in the announcement proposed a "world-wide conference on a general reduction of armaments and a banning of atomic weapons." The conference would be called by the U.N. some time this year.

MOLOTOVE SPEECH

(Last week Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov in a speech before the Soviet Parliament said the United States was lagging behind the Communists in the production of hydrogen weapons. But in Washington Defense Secretary Wilson said the United States still was ahead of Russia in atomic weapons.

(Yesterday Britain announced it is developing the hydrogen bomb and will produce it. Defense Minister Harold MacMillan in announcing Britain's development of the H-bomb made it clear it was for use against the Soviet Union.)

(In August 1953 the Soviets announced they had exploded a hydrogen bomb. This was confirmed by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission. The Russians exploded their first atomic bomb Sept. 23, 1949, and since have held several other A-bomb tests.)

Nanchi Isle Seen Next Target of Chinese Reds

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP)—Next on the list of offshore islands the Chinese Reds want to wrest from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek may be tiny, rock-ridged Nanchi, south of the abandoned Tachens.

This definite possibility was being considered in Washington tonight.

PRESENT PROBLEM

Whatever military or psychological factors might be involved, an overt move against Nanchi would present a new hour of decision for the United States—the necessity of either going to its defense, again covering removal of Nationalist troops and civilians as was done in the case of the Tachens, or of simply standing back and letting the Reds seize the island.

Already an unspecified number of civilians have been removed in Chinese Nationalist ships from Nanchi, which is a little more than halfway from Formosa to Tachen.

The growing belief that Nanchi might be next on the target list was predicated on two factors:

1. A buildup of air facilities in the general mainland area facing Nanchi, with indications that a patrol boat base is being established at the mainland harbor of Wenchou, only 40 miles away.

2. The general strategic and tactical pattern used by Red military commanders since they started out deep in China almost a decade ago.

TWO-FOLD VALUE

Nanchi has become the northernmost outpost of the Nationalists, now that Tachen is in Red hands. Its value to the Reds could be both military and political: 1. the capture of a radar position now used by the Nationalists to watch air and sea movements along the China coast, and 2. a psychological move to be exploited as new evidence of Red China's invincibility in Asia.

When the Reds may choose to make their next move is anyone's guess. Speculation here ranges from next week to next summer.

Should a military contest for Nanchi develop, the airpower that could be put over the islands by the Reds and by the Nationalists and U. S. planes flying from Formosa probably would be about equal.

Chiang has reinforced the garrison of Nanchi, but it is definitely smaller than the defending force which withdrew from Tachen. Unofficial estimates place it at about 8,000.

AFTER SCUFFLE

Had To Kill Little Girl, Youth Says

DETROIT, Feb. 18 (AP)—"I had to kill her—so she wouldn't tell her mother."

Calm and dry-eyed, 16-year-old Floyd Diamond told state police today in gruesome detail how he stabbed and beat to death pretty 9-year-old Kathleen (Kathy) McLaughlin last night and left her body in an icy pond.

YOUTH'S STORY

Oakland County Prosecutor Fred C. Ziem said the youth's story to state authorities was almost exactly as he had told it to him three hours after the girl's distraught father lifted the battered body from the freezing waters.

Ziem said it went like this:

Floyd and Kathy were scuffling.

"Then she got mad and called me names," Floyd said, "and I started to hit her with my fists.

"I knocked her down and she jumped up and started to run.

"I got my knife out and started running after her. I wanted to kill her then.

"She tripped and I fell on top of her. The knife (a pocket jackknife Floyd was carrying) accidentally stuck in her back.

"HAD TO KILL"

"I had to kill her then—so she wouldn't tell her mother what I had done.

"She kept screaming, but I kept stabbing her—5 or 10 times."

In his matter-of-fact tone the boy described dragging the unconscious child 30 feet to the pond.

"She came to, then," he said, "so I found a rock and hit her three times."

Today Dr. Richard E. Olsen said it was the rock that killed her. He said his post-mortem showed Kathy died from a shattered skull from one of the three blows from a jagged rock.

Floyd had been released from the Wayne County Training Home three months ago.

Pineau Bid For Helm Post Beaten

PARIS, Saturday, Feb. 19 (AP)—The National Assembly early today turned down the bid of Christian Pineau to be premier of France. The official vote was 312 against, 268 for him.

Pineau, a 50-year-old Socialist who writes fairy tales as a hobby, had been struggling against odds since he first was summoned Monday morning by President Rene Coty to form a government.

At the outset he was conceded a small chance, but he persisted and formed a Cabinet.

Pineau picked up a little strength but as the voting began he was reported an almost certain loser.

PLEDGES

In trying to set himself up as the first Socialist Premier since 1947, Pineau pledged himself to work for quick final ratification of the Paris treaties for German rearmament, unceasing efforts for new Big Four talks, and increased trade between East and West.

Pineau is the third candidate to be called to solve the two-week-old crisis. The first two choices of President Rene Coty, Antoine Pinay and Pierre Pflimlin, had to give up before going to the Assembly.

Veterinarians Aid Is Planned For Humans in Atom Attack

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP)—Use of veterinarians is being planned to help treat human victims of any atomic attack on American cities.

The Federal Civil Defense Administration announced today the animal doctors would be urgently needed in a national emergency and should be prepared to help.

"At civil defense first aid stations," the administration said, "veterinarians, under a physician's supervision, will be expected to treat shock, burn and surgical casualties, splint fractures and assist in the care of radiation casualties."

Animal hospitals also will be utilized in an emergency.

Ike Whips His Trade Bill Through the House Intact

he said, would have to vote his amendment "up or down."

The Reed proposal would have required the President to bow to the recommendations of the Tariff Commission in raising and lowering duties, except when the national security was involved. In such cases, he might overrule the commission.

Administration leaders did not disclose the nature of the compromise proposal. Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, assistant Republican floor leader, told newsmen only that it would "go a reasonable distance" in dealing with "the authority of the Tariff Commission." He indicated the President thought Reed's proposal would "go too far."

Today's vote came on the heels of a dramatic opening day of debate yesterday, which saw the administration first lose, then win a fight to have the bill considered without amendments from the floor. Its victory in that battle was by a one-vote margin, 193 to 192. Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, a Democrat, was generally credited with saving the day for the administration with a dramatic appeal to the House.

FINAL BILL

As finally approved, the bill would extend to June 30, 1958, the President's authority to cut tariffs without prior approval by Congress, providing the changes are made in return for concessions from other nations. He would be able to reduce most tariffs by 5 per cent in each of the next three years. Duties on products imported in negligible amount might be cut as much as 50 per cent in return for concessions.

Shortly before the vote on the Reed motion, the House Republican leader, Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, read a letter from President Eisenhower. In it the President declared that he had been concerned to learn that some members of Congress were "not wholly familiar with my philosophy" concerning proper administration of the trade program.

The President emphasized that the program "will powerfully reinforce the military and economic strength of our own country and is of the greatest importance to the free world."

It underlies much of America's military effort abroad, he said, and promises "ultimate relief from burdensome foreign assistance programs now essential to free world security."

"Obviously," the President wrote, "it would ill serve our nation's interest to undermine American industry or to take steps which would lower the high wages received by our working men and women. This program, therefore, must be and will be administered to the benefit of the nation's economic strength and not to its detriment.

"No American industry wil be placed in jeopardy by the administration of this measure."

MARTIN APPEAL

Martin accompanied his reading of the President's letter with a last-minute appeal of his own that members support the administration and continue the trade program.

But once again, as yesterday, it was Speaker Rayburn who generally received credit for the outcome.

Rayburn invited some 20 freshmen Democrats, including some who voted against the administration yesterday, to a breakfast meeting. At the meeting, according to one member who was there, the speaker did not "order" the members to support the unmodified bill. According to this informant, he simply put it this way:

"If you want to get along, go along."

The bill now goes to the Senate Finance Committee, and from there to the Senate for action. Should the Senate change the measure in any way, it must then go to a conference between the two houses for settlement of any differences before it can go to the President for signature.

and then left them covered with a wooden plank. Fuller was at the death scene investigating the killing.

The next morning when he returned to the spot, Sanders testified, the board had been removed, dirt had been knocked or kicked into the prints and state investigators were "unable to get any impression at all."

He located the prints along the path where a previous witness testified he saw a man running just a few seconds after the Patterson killing.

Sanders, now a Columbus, Ga., cotton mill worker, testified that he saw Fuller leaving a restaurant about one mile from the murder scene at approximately 8:40 p.m. on the fateful night of last June 18.

Bill Littleton, an inmate of Draper Prison, told the jury he saw Ferrell and Fuller outside Patterson's office building about 20 minutes before the attorney was shot down.

But he testified under cross-examination that he withheld that information from state investigators until after Fuller and Ferrell were indicted for the Patterson murder.

State's attorneys also produced surprise testimony that the famed antivice campaigner was shot with at least two types of .38-caliber bullets. He was killed eight months ago tonight outside his Phoenix City law office.

Whether the shots were fired from separate guns or the same pistol was not brought out.

Fuller and Ferrell were indicted for the murder along with former Atty. Gen. Si Garrett, the man Patterson would have succeeded. Ironically the three men charged with the slaying were among the authorities who first directed the Patterson murder investigation.

Ferrell was chief prosecuting officer in Russell County.

Littleton, former Phenix City taxi driver, is serving 18 months at Draper Prison for manslaughter. He told the 12-man jury he saw Fuller and Ferrell standing on the sidewalk near the murder scene as he drove past in his cab.

Littleton said he waved to the two men, both known to him for many years, and that Ferrell waved back.

The taxi driver testified he had radioed his office in nearby Columbus, Ga., about five minutes before he saw Ferrell and Fuller, and the time of that call was 8:45 p.m.

The first call to police headquarters on the murder was logged at 9:09 p.m.

Tenn. Loses Thrust At Dixon Stock Sale

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP). The Securities and Exchange Commission today denied a plea by the state of Tennessee for a reconsideration of the proposed 5½-million-dollar stock financing of the Dixon-Yates power project at West Memphis, Ark.

The commission has approved sale of the stock by the newly formed Mississippi Valley Generating Co. to its parent utilities, the Southern Co. and Middle South Utilities Co., to get the 107-million-dollar project under way.

5 Years a Prisoner of Red Poles, Field Professes Bewilderment

LONDON, Feb. 18 (AP)—Hermann Field told the story today of his five years in a Polish prison cell.

To show for it, he said, he has the manuscript of a novel and a $50,000 indemnity payment from the Polish government.

But he was unable to shed much light on the long mystery of the "disappearing Fields."

He denied emphatically before a news conference that he ever had been a Communist. But said he did not know about his elder brother Noel, the first of the Fields to disappear behind the Iron Curtain.

NOEL, WIFE FREED

Noel and his wife, Herta, recently were released from a Hungarian prison and remained in asylum in Budapest. Noel's adopted daughter, Erica Wallach, is in a Soviet forced labor camp at Vorkuta.

Hermann, a 44-year-old Cleveland architect, said he does not have the faintest idea why he was arrested and jailed. He said the Poles paid him $50,000 indemnity and $1,500 more for medical treatment during convalescence since his release in October.

He said he had never been an agent for anyone in any espionage enterprise, had never been brought to trial, never was solicited to confess and never heard that any formal charges had been filed against him.

"I think it is very hard for a person in normal life to understand the psychology of a person at the end of such a stretch as this, when it suddenly breaks and you almost break with it," Field said."

He said this depressed mental attitude was what caused him to recuperate for a while in Poland before leaving, and then to live in seclusion with his wife in Switzerland for some weeks.

NO BRAIN-WASH

But he said he had not been subjugated to brain-washing techniques, indoctrinated psychologically, or physically mistreated. His health suffered from "five years of imprisonment in a basement," but "life looks brighter now." He has a statement from the Polish government that the mysterious suspicions against him were false, and the $50,000 indemnity.

Dulles Leaves For Asian Defense Talk

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles took off today for a Southeast Asia defense conference at Bangkok, Thailand, predicting that it will "make a real contribution toward the peace and security of the future."

Dulles and his top aides had with them a plan for coordinating military and economic defenses against Communist aggression or subversion.

This broad outline has been developed in working level meetings among representatives of eight nations which signed the Southeast Asia Collective Defense Treaty at Manila last Sept. 8. The nations are the United States, Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, Pakistan, Thailand and the Philippines.

The Manila pact called for a council to consider a defense program. Hence Dulles, British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden and their counterparts will negotiate a final plan during the three-day meeting which opens next Wednesday.

Interim Home Rule Study Is Set as House Kills Bill

By ALBERT RILEY

Georgia towns and cities will have to wait at least until 1956 before they can adopt home rule.

A Senate bill to give them home rule now was killed in the House of Representatives Friday on a 104 to 43 vote to indefinitely postpone the bill.

However, the House and Senate then adopted a resolution by Rep. Bernard Nightingale of Glynn calling for a legislative study of the entire question of home rule and a report back to the 1956 General Assembly.

The purpose of Nightingale's resolution is to get a workable bill that next year's Legislature can accept.

In voting to postpone indefinitely the Senate bill authored by Sen. Ernest McDonald of Dalton, the House rejected appeals for its passage by Reps. Andrew McKenna of Bibb and Carl Sanders of Richmond.

The Fulton County delegation joined Rep. Grady Coker of Canton in successfully opposing the Senate proposal they termed "a good idea but a bad bill."

The Senate bill would have given municipalities broad powers to govern themselves without having to get the Legislature to pass local laws.

Proponents of the bill argued that Georgians last November ratified a constitutional amendment that would permit them to have home rule and therefore should be given the opportunity to enjoy it.

On an 88 to 76 roll call vote the home rule advocates beat down one move to table the bill before finally losing their fight on the postponement motion.

would give Cravey power to regulate rebates which insurance firms could give small loan firms for handling insurance on loans.

OPERATIONS AT DOORS

Millican assailed Cravey's operations outside the Senate doors in persuading reluctant senators to support the measure. He quoted one senator as stating that three of the senator's friends would be given jobs. Millican said Cravey couldn't say he was incorrect in saying he was summoning senators out of the chambers, because the members had seen him.

Cravey, who denied an Atlanta Constitution story that he engaged in such activities Wednesday, was openly buttonholing senators Friday as he established headquarters at the Senate entrance.

Sen. Howell Hollis of Columbus, who spearheaded the small loan bill, quoted enemies of "loan sharks" as stating "it is a step in the right direction." Hollis promised to support Millican's legislation next January if Cravey doesn't administer the act properly, "or allows anything else to go on that he shouldn't."

OTHER CHARGES

Millican said the bill would permit firms to charge borrowers 276 per cent interest and also allow them to collect a 65 per cent rebate on insurance premiums.

There were few disputes during the session.

Outcome of controversies saw Highway Chairman Jim Gillis resign to avert legislation reorganizing the Highway Board; a bill passed to tax branch banks locally; an administration bill to put the sales tax on casual sales lie idle in the Senate after winning a tough fight in the House; and the House killed a bill which would have restricted publication of names of persons charged with drunken driving and sex crimes.

The session passed bills affecting highways, finance, labor, farmers and schools.

RAISED HUNTING FEES

It raised hunting and fishing fees, granted periodic pay raises to Superior Court judges, and allotted $1 from each marriage license to the ordinary's pension fund.

For labor, it increased the workmen's compensation for injured workers and extended jobless benefit coverage to 60,000 more workers.

It brought the Minimum Foundtaion Program for Education on a more current basis, subject to money being available.

It created a Rural Roads Authority and passed bills to sell vehicle tags at the courthouse, required motorists to pay property tax on their cars before getting license plates, and repealed the Toll Road Authority Act.

For the farmer, it set up a Farmers Market Authority to build $8,000,000 worth of farm markets.

It approved an administration plan to give a $250,000 reward for the first commercial oil producing well in Georgia.

LanhamSeeks Tariff Clause For Textiles

Constitution Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 18—Georgia's Rep. Henderson Lanham made a strong plea on the floor of the House Friday for a provision to require the President to follow findings of the U.S. Tariff Commission in negotiating tariff reductions.

The Rome, Ga., congressman asked that such a provision be written into the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Extension Act.

Rep. Lanham said the textile industry is threatened by negotiation of a trade agreement with Japan.

He was one of seven Georgia House members who voted to throw the trade agreements extension bill open to amendments.

Only three Georgia members—Reps. Carl Vinson of Milledgeville, Paul Brown of Elberton, and Prince Preston of Statesboro — followed leadership of Speaker Sam Rayburn in urging a closed rule. Such a rule would shut off free consideration of all amendments.

Vet Leaders Wilson, Tice Visit Here

Two national commanders of veterans organizations were in Atlanta Friday.

Rufus H. Wilson, national commander of Amvets (American Veterans of World War II and the Korean conflict), and Merton B. Tice, commander in chief of Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, arrived separately for three-day visits with Georgia leaders of their respective groups.

Tice declared here the VFW "will continue to do everything possible to strengthen our national policy as it underlies national security." He criticized "vacillation and wishy-washyness" by some public officials. Tice said his organization "deplores the character-assassination and fighting among themselves" exhibited by some national legislators.

Wilson was to receive an honorary commission on Gov. Griffin's staff. He spoke Friday before the Georgia Legislature.

Tice, a guest of Georgia VFW Commander Roland Richardson of Griffin, will visit various veterans hospitals in the area and will appear on TV in behalf of the South Fulton County Hospital Fund drive. He was entertained at a reception sponsored by VFW Post No. 4392 at East Point Friday night.

The VFW head will be honored at a state-wide banquet at Thomaston VFW Home Saturday.

Wilson also scheduled visits to veterans hospitals. A formal banquet and dance in his honor will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Henry Grady Hotel. From 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday Wilson will receive Georgia Amvets and other veterans' spokesmen at the hotel.

Court Refuses Fields Appeal in DeKalb Slaying

The Georgia Supreme Court Friday refused to hear a new appeal in the case of Jennings Edward Fields, convicted of murder in the slaying of a DeKalb County policeman.

Fields was found guilty in March of the Feb. 6, 1954, slaying of patrolman J. L. Mize. He was sentenced to death in the electric chair.

The new plea questioned the legality of a confession the state used in Field's conviction. The Supreme Court had previously turned down a similar plea.

DeKalb Solicitor Roy Leathers said the court will officially "inform" him of the decision within 10 days. Fields will then be resentenced.

average lifetime earnings of a college graduate are $268,000, as compared with $165,000 for a high school graduate.

The General Assembly at its 1951 session made an annual appropriation of $12,233,000 for the University System.

The regular appropriation has remained at this figure since then.

Since July 1, 1953, however, the University System, like other departments of the state, has received only 94 per cent of its regular appropriation, or $11,499,020.

The University System's appropriation was fixed at its present level in response to requests for funds for the 1951-52 fiscal year. That year enrollment in the University System, not counting enrollment in extension courses, short courses and off-campus centers, was 20,449.

MORE EACH YEAR

This year enrollment jumped to 25,000. During the next college year it is expected to reach at least 26,000.

And 15 years hence—a 75 per cent increase over today's figures!

Additional teachers needed by 1955-56, plus additional teaching equipment and supplies, will cost not less than $1,300,000, educators estimate.

Some extra money should be provided for salary increases, they point out.

Georgia university and college instructors' salaries have never reached the level prevailing in many institutions in the South. One state university in an adjoining state now pays salaries that are 15 to 20 per cent higher than comparable ones in Georgia.

TEACHERS' PAY

At least $1,125,000 is needed to bring our college teachers' salaries up to par.

New buildings will be needed for thousands of new Georgia college students. Educators told the Georgia Legislature this state will need $80,000,000 worth of buildings by 1963. The board of regents had a goal of construction the next eight years for buildings costing $50,000,000.

There are other pressing needs.

Regents think state funds for agricultural research should be increased by $626,000, to bring the total to $1,530,000. (Florida, with a smaller agricultural population, appropriates $2,300,000 for that purpose from state funds.)

"Each dollar expended for agricultural research brings more than $30 in increased income for the farmers of Georgia," Dr. Caldwell points out. "This should be an excellent investment from the standpoint of the state."

Georgia needs a $165,000 addition to current library funds. Each of two or three strong university libraries in the South has more books than there are in all the libraries of University System of Georgia institutions together.

More money for agricultural extension service and experiment stations . . . for various expansions in educational programs . . . for deferred maintenance and removal of fire hazards—add them to new building needs and teachers' salaries.

TOTAL SOUGHT

The total comes to a requested $25,034,971 appropriation for 1955-1956.

A lot of money? Sure it is. But Georgia taxpayers aren't carrying the load taxpayers already shoulder in many other Southern states.

Regents released a survey showing Georgia's appropriation per student is $519 per year. That's on the basis of a study of Southern states' support in relation to enrollment in institutions of higher learning in 13 states.

Average appropriation in Southern states is $725.

One Southern state (regents withheld state names) appropriates $1,198 per student. Another, $1,017. The three next in line: $985, $827, and $811.

Georgians are proud of their institutions of higher learning. They are proud of recent strides made by our colleges and universities.

ADDED PROBLEMS

But already those institutions are treading deep water. Increased enrollment ahead—and it's inevitable, with rising birth rates and greater demand for college educations—will compound the problems.

Chancellor Caldwell sums up: "The University System faces a serious curtailment in scope and quantity of services now offered. More funds are necessary to enable the system to continue its progress toward building a great and useful program of higher education for the people of Georgia!"

Use Will Determine Loan Law's Value

In one of its final actions before adjournment yesterday the House of Representatives passed the controversial measure regulating small loan companies. For the first time the entire industry will come under one regulatory body headed by Comptroller General Zack Cravey—who will become the "czar" of the Georgia small loan business.

The bill has been described by Sen. Everett Millican as "the Georgia Industrial Loan Law to legalize robbery." Those favoring the bill—and the majority of General Assembly most certainly did—say that for the first time it will be possible to regulate the small loan field. It brings all the lenders under one act and one law instead of an assortment of several vague and obscure regulations.

It is true that there has been little or no enforcement of the old laws and that abuses in the small lending field have been notorious. The new law does set up a licensing agency and a police system for the new business.

It is equally true that the bill authorizes—exclusive of fees—a legal interest rate of 5 per cent per month or 60 per cent per year. It is true, too, that the measure permits lenders to require life, health and accident insurance of their clients—insurance that they themselves may handle. It permits the small loan commissioner, Mr. Cravey, to set the rates for such insurance.

There are good and bad features of this bill. Certainly no one can argue that effective regulation is not necessary. An interest rate of 60 per cent, on the other hand, cannot be defended. Rates that high and higher, however, are now being charged in the "hip pocket" transactions that go on all over the state. There is a greater loss hazard in the business and most of the loans will be repaid in less time than a year—thus the 5 per cent per month will seldom reach the 60 per cent figure.

Whatever its merits or demerits, the bill is now law. If it corrects some of the worst of the abuses now practiced, it will serve a useful purpose. It gives Mr. Cravey complete control of the business, a function that many think should be in the banking department. Enforcement will be the test.

But the biggest test is whether the bill will be accepted by the public. If in practice it brings on a continuation of the evils now associated with the small loan field, an aroused public will clamor for regulations that would virtually eliminate the business.

The lenders, themselves, must see to it that the law is enforced to the letter. Otherwise, it will be their funeral. And the law in practice will prove who is right.

Church Bells Will Toll To Honor Brotherhood

Tolerance is one of the hallmarks of education. Brotherhood, and a belief in the kinship of all mankind, is one of the characteristics of a civilized society.

Atlanta now joins other cities in observing National Brotherhood Week, an event sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews. The period is a refreshing interlude in a world given to disputes and torn by wars.

It is hard to hate a person if you really know him, it is difficult to dislike other nations and races if you have full knowledge of them. Ignorance is the basis of most of our prejudices in the fields of religion politics and even neighborhood feuds. Brotherhood at times seems an ideal impossible of fulfillment. But with the spread of knowledge and its companion, tolerance, the ideal comes a little closer to reality each day.

Church bells will toll throughout Atlanta Saturday evening at 7 o'clock in salute to the observance. When you hear them, remember that human aspirations and emotions are the same and that tolerance of each other's approaches to life is a cornerstone of the American way.

Gainesville Daily Times Takes Its 'Punishment'

The Gainesville Daily Times is a forthright and progressive north Georgia newspaper. Its editors speak courageously on all matters concerning the people of Hall County and the Gainesville area.

But like other newspapers which express their opinions on public matters, the Times sometimes incurs the ire of those who disagree. The Feb. 17 issue of the paper carried a story that shows the extent to which some public officials will go to prevent the public from knowing the facts about their own affairs.

The paper supported a legislative measure that would have set up a salary system for paying courthouse officers instead of the current fee system. This did not set well with the courthouse and the Times has been "punished."

Hall County Clerk W. D. Duncan and Sheriff "Cal" Wilson told the paper that they have decided against following the usual schedule of designating the two Gainesville papers as official organs for legal advertising on alternate years. This year it became the Times' turn. But as punishment for disagreeing with the officials, the paper will be denied this legal advertising.

This is another flagrant example of the growing tendency of public officials to deny the people access to information that concerns them. It exists at every level of government, including Washington. The lengths to which officialdom will go to stifle honest criticism and to keep the people from knowing the truth poses a threat to all the fundamental rights of the American people.

Government in this country is the people's business, not just that of the officials who administer it. They have a right to know all the facts concerning that government. Unless they do have such access to information, our system of government cannot survive.

Newspapers have a duty to give people the facts and to help interpret those facts. Every citizen and every official should be grateful that this is so. But this continual browbeating and harassment of publishers, editors and reporters for performing their basic duty in a free society is an attack on the people's right to know. If that right is destroyed, our system of government goes with it.

We congratulate the Times and hope its "punishment" will not break its publisher nor still its courageous voice.

General Elijah Clark Licks the Bureaucrats

The United States Army may waive regulations to allow the burial of one of the nation's first generals on government property.

The general is Elijah Clark, one of Georgia's Revolutionary heroes. He waged guerrilla warfare with the Tories in east Georgia, took Augusta from the British, and fought at the Battle of Kettle Creek and in South Carolina.

The Clark family burial ground on the banks of the Savannah below Elberton was flooded by Clark Hill Reservoir. The bodies of the old patriot, his wife and his daughter were moved to Lincolnton and a site that both the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Georgia Historical Commission thought was unsuitable. It was decided to transfer them to Elijah Clark Park on the banks of the lake formed by Clark Hill Dam. The park is government owned, though leased to the state, but the Army Engineers who had jurisdiction announced the plan disagreed with the rule book.

It appears now that common sense will triumph over regulations. Or perhaps it was the irony of the Army boycotting one of its founders that carried the day. At any rate, Washington will be asked, naturally through channels, to permit General Clark to rest in the park named for him in the midst of the land he fought to set free.

Probation Saves Money; It Also Is Profitable

One of Georgia's crying needs, a statewide probation system, may be on the way. At least members of the General Assembly are interested.

Georgia paroles persons who have served part of their terms, but probation is unknown except in the larger counties. The result is, overcrowded jails, and doubtless a class of habitual criminals who might have been rehabilitated after their first offense if probation were the rule rather than the exception.

The state prison at Reidsville and the camps are bulging with prisoners serving time for minor misdeeds. Many are in for misdemeanors. They could be handled better and much more cheaply under supervised probation outside the prison walls.

Probation is economical, and the state needs to save money. Probation is profitable, too, in terms of lives and homes saved and in the conservation of Georgia's most valuable asset, its human resources.

Kansas City Star

A tabulation shows that a record total of 304 women now are serving in state legislatures and that only five of the states are not so represented. With Oklahoma counted as a border state, the delinquents are all in the South, the others being Alabama, Arkansas, Florida and Georgia.

Now why shouldn't the southern ladies come right out and take a chance? Surely the chivalrous men of the region would make it easy. The eyes of the nation will be on the next showing at the polls.

Attempt to Ship Surplus Food to Red China Met With Rebuffs From the Communists

Atlanta—The Fellowship of Reconciliation is now sponsoring a program to try to channel some of our surplus goods to feed China, at least to offer to feed China.

I wrote the President asking him to try to channel some of this food to Red China. Mr. William J. Caldwell, the director of public reports, answered with the following information:

1. The League of Red Cross Societies, Geneva, Switzerland, offered aid to China at the time of the Yangtze floods. The aid was refused.

2. By decree of the Chinese Communist government, no private voluntary agencies from the free world are allowed to carry on any activities on the mainland of China.

3. There is no way the outside world can check on the extent of need for food in the Yangtze flood areas. The Communist government asserts there is no need.

Mr. Caldwell concludes with, "Because of the reasons listed above and because of other pertinent considerations, it has been concluded that an offer by the U.S. government to send food to Communist China would be inadvisable under conditions presently prevailing." (He quotes this from a statement by Harold E. Stassen, director, Foreign Operations Administration.)

Ex-Prisoner Praises Work of Guerrillas

East Point — I have read Anne Gowen's story on Alejandro Munzo and it is of interest to me as I was captured on Bataan in April 1942. I was serving as a pilot with the 16th squadron, 27th bombardment group.

On numerous occasions I received aid from the guerrillas and feel that any assistance I may render one of them will help in a small way to repay the debt. No one could possibly know the conditions that existed there except one who had been there. I do not know Mr. Munzo but if I can help him in any way I will.

U.N. Has Neglected Principal Duty—Peace

Atlanta—In his column Mr. McGill listed the bad things likely to result from a war between the U.S. and Red China, then said: "We'll be in this one alone, because the U.N. will not join us." I was troubled and disappointed that he did not object and protest to such an idea of the U.N. thus neglecting her principal duty of leading any movement against war and in favor of peace.

Anyway, in all recent European and Asian wars we have assumed too much responsibility, especially in the loss of men, money and equipment, without insisting on the other nations doing their duty.

I am troubled about a second matter, that the U.S. is drifting down the same militaristic road which caused the destruction of the Roman Empire.

Partition, Often Used in Past, May Resolve Formosa Crisis

In The Wall Street Journal

Winston Churchill foresaw pretty accurately the shape of postwar international relations when he threw out a striking phrase during a parliamentary debate in 1946. "Better a world divided," he said, "than a world destroyed." Will the Formosa dispute prove to be one more application of that principle? Ever since, partition has been the provisional answer to many problems which could not be solved by negotiation and which neither side was prepared to try to solve by military force.

There are now two Germanies, two Koreas, two Viet Nams in Indo-China.

And the Eisenhower Administration policy on Formosa, as it unfolds, is unmistakably pointed in the direction of two Chinas, coexisting not in friendship but refraining from shooting at each other.

Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai have been put on unequivocal notice that they cannot take Formosa by force without fighting an air and naval war with the United States.

At the same time, while committing itself specifically to the use of force in the event of extreme provocation, the United States Government is clearly indicating its preference for a peaceful solution.

Had the United States desired a show-down with Red China there would have been no proposal to bring the United Nations into the picture. For U.N. sentiment is definitely less favorable to the regime of Chiang Kai-shek, more inclined to make great sacrifices to avoid a conflict, than United States sentiment. At the least the Chinese Reds, if they would show a willingness to negotiate reasonably before the U.N. forum, might hope to obtain confirmation of their title to the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu. They could also hope to build up increased pressure for admission to the United Nations.

The final decision between war and uneasy and precarious peace may be strongly influenced by the attitude of the other two major powers which are most closely involved in the situation, Great Britain and the Soviet Union.

How far the Soviet Union will go in backing its Communist Chinese ally is an important question to which the answer is obscure, and the latest Kremlin palace revolution can hardly be said to have clarified it. There would seem to be two opposing considerations which might influence the Soviet attitude. A war over Formosa might suit the Soviet book as a means of diverting American attention and energy from Europe. On the other hand the prospect of servicing such a war with airplanes and with modern weapons which the Chinese cannot manufacture themselves may well be unattractive.

At any rate, it is improbable that the Soviet Union, even if it came to the aid of its ally, would start tossing hydrogen bombs around because Red China became involved in air and naval encounters on an issue that does not directly concern Soviet national interests or security. The Soviet regime is about the last in the world that would permit itself to be drawn into an undesired war by the action of a weaker partner.

Separate the Smiler From the Shouter

SAO PAULO, Brazil—I think I'll recommend to the State Department that they give every American who plans a trip abroad a little test before they issue him a passport. It wouldn't have to be complicated. You'd just put him in a room with a telephone and tell him to make a phone call, just as if he'd just arrived in a foreign country and was trying to get in touch with a friend. Then you'd have a waiter come in, and you'd have him order a meal. Then he'd have to get in a taxicab and tell the driver where he wanted to go. And, naturally, the telephone operator, the taxi driver, the waiter neither would understand any English, nor speak any.

And you'd watch how he would handle himself in these situations. If he turned out to be a smiler, you'd give him his passport and send him on his way with the nation's official blessing. If he turned out to be a shouter, you'd make him stay at home while, until he brushed up on his manners.

There are just two kinds of Americans traveling abroad today, and they fall into these classifications. The smilers get along all right. The first thing they do is learn the local word for "please" and the word for "thank you." Then, in plain English, speaking slowly, and smiling as they speak, they ask for what they want. Nine times out of ten they get it, pretty quick. The guy they are talking to may not understand them, but he wants to help. And if he can't pick up a word to give him a clue, he'll go find somebody to help.

The shouter has a rough time. Like the man in the restaurant the other night who wanted a slice of lemon. He asked for it fairly quietly. The waiter didn't understand. So he started hollering. "Lemon," he yelled, "lemon. Dammit, can't you understand what a lemon is!" The waiter couldn't.

In his language, lemon is spelled l i m a o and pronounced "lee-mow" with the "mow" part spoken through the nose so it comes out a little like a cat's "meow." And before all the uproar was over every American in the room was ashamed of their fellow countryman. And all the help were angry at all Americans in general, and the man who wanted a lemon was madder than ever. He kept making gestures illustrating what a lemon looked like. So they brought him an egg.

It's the good old British, bless 'em, who started this business of shouting for what they wanted. The British roamed the world in search of trade and found it. But they never bothered to learn the languages of the people they dealt with. They just yelled for what they wanted.

The method had one advantage. It spread the English language around the world, so that now wherever you go, you can make out fairly well. But it had one great disadvantage, too. It instilled deep in the breasts of the peoples who had this harsh and difficult tongue forced upon them, a deep dislike of those who spread it. Which includes us.

The Ripening Grain Refutes the Doubter

A letter has come from a reader who describes herself as "greatly disturbed." She writes that she believes the Bible to be true and trustworthy, and yet she finds it difficult to accept literally many of the signs, wonders and miracles in the Testaments.

The story which particularly distresses her is the account of Christ's miraculous feeding of the multitude.

You remember, no doubt, the details. The crowds have followed Christ to a mountain-side rendezvous where their hungering souls have been fed with the words of life. Christ then perceives that after the long vigil their bodies are in need of sustenance. But none has provided bread for so vast an assembly.

In the group, however, there is a boy whose mother has wrapped for him a bit of food, five barley loaves and two small fish. Apparently the lad willingly surrenders his food to Christ. The Master turns to God in prayer and then in a manner which challenges our imaginations there is multiplied from these small cakes and these little fish enough and to spare for all the people.

Let's think about this story for a moment, for it concerns a miracle and consideration of miracles is always fascinating. There was a time when I questioned and doubted the miracles in the Bible. I can well remember when once I was bewildered by my teacher's exposition of a Biblical story which s e e m e d preposterous, and incredible. My teacher answered my challenge that he offer "proof" with these words: "But is this story which so disturbs you any more miraculous than your hand which turned the page you've been reading or your eye that reads the verse?"

That was an inspired answer, sobering and thoughtful. I had been arguing about a Biblical story and all the while I had been taking for granted the equally marvelous miracle of the human hand and the human eye.

When a man plants a handful of grain, the soil and the sun and the rain contrive to multiply those seeds and to produce at last bushels of grain. Isn't that a miracle to astound any reasonable person?

On the hillside in Galilee there was not one miracle only—the provision of food to whet the appetites of many men—but there were many other miracles. There was the miracle of the boy who, living in a clutching, grabbing world, was willing to give to others that which he had. There was the miracle of the believing multitude who, in a world of doubt and skepticism, opened their minds and hearts to the word of Christ.

If I can believe in generosity, in God's response to man's hungering soul, in the matchless Christ and in the growth of seed in sun and soil, then cannot I say that n o t h i n g is beyond God's power?

Trulove Finds He Likes Job

Its late for Valentine's, but if one were seeking a romantic name combination in the Georgia House of Representatives, he'd find it in Nightingale, Birdsong and Trulove. The Nightingale is Bernard L. of Glynn; the Birdsong, Frank of Troup. Neither is a newcomer to legislative halls. Not so Trulove, Franklin F., of White. Frank Trulove has just finished the first semester of his freshman term. The White County representative is a 32-year-old service station operator. Of his trade there is no formidable bloc in the House. He's a good looking black-haired mountaineer, native to the country around Cleveland.

Besides being a businessman and a legislator, Frank is a college student. He dropped out of high school and into the Army where he served as Infantry instructor at Fort Benning. After the war he went back home and passed a special examination to qualify for a high school diploma.

In May this ambitious young fellow will graduate from a two-year course at Truett-McConnell College. His classes have been at night, while Mrs. Trulove tended the filling station. The two-year course at Truett-McConnel is not the end. Frank has his eye on the University of Georgia and a full-fledged four-year degree.

Hankering for a practical education in political science, he matriculated in the White County primary last September. When the grades were in, the Trulove name stood at the head of a class of three, the other two already experienced in the House.

For 40 days, since Jan. 10, the gentleman from White has sat quietly in seat 193, left-hand rear row of the House. His has been the demeanor befitting a freshman. Quietly and carefully, he's been observing and studying. He's made no big noise, he's moved no mountains. But he has attended regularly and voted according to his lights.

He has appraised his colleagues, cataloguing the diligent and able, the spotlight hogs and the phonies.

Between now and the 1956 session he'll make a special study of old-age assistance and of the Adequate Program for Education.

Frank Trulove likes the legislature. He'll be a more useful public servant next session for having bided his time this one. He sees in the representative assembly, democracy in action—imperfect it is true—but where do men do better at governing themselves?

This first-termer sees the need for a pre-legislative study committee. He thinks a reduction in the number of committees would be helpful. The name of Trulove appeared on 13 this session—education, appropriations, special judiciary and 10 more.

That's entirely too many for one human to keep up with—even for a ridge-runner from White County.

Atlanta Ranks High In Cost of Living

Where does your money go? Stick with me a few paragraphs, and we'll find out—in cooperation with the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Brunswick A. Bagdon, who is regional director of the Bureau of Labor Statistics (hereinafter designated as the BLS), made a speech the other day before an Atlanta civic organization. This speech—duly reported in The Constitution—brought out a bunch of facts about the cost of living in Georgia's capital city. Some of these findings are as follows:

Atlanta, BLS studies show, is fourth highest in the nation insofar as the cost of living in 34 studied cities is concerned. Houston, Richmond and Washington are higher. New Orleans is lowest.

There is only an 11-per-cent spread between the lowest and the highest cost-of-living cities of the 34 studied, so you couldn't immediately gain much ground by moving, for the cost of so doing would just about eat up the difference.

A breakdown of Atlanta's living costs shows the "moderate income" family ($3,000 to $9,000 per year) spent $1,139 for food, $447 for clothing, and on and on until the average expenditure was $3,872.

Mr. Bagdon received a bunch of telephone calls the day the story of his speech appeared in the paper. People were calling up to find out what the living costs were in various cities and to find out a whole lot of other things.

I was one of the callers. My immediate question was just how did Atlanta get to fourth place in the cost-of-living race. Mr. Bagdon, who has more figures at his fingertips than does an assembly line worker in an IBM factory, gave some answers. We spend more on housing in Atlanta. Our housing costs—including utilities and all—run at $934 yearly, compared with $746 in Savannah and $805 in Birmingham. Also, taxes are more. The total of all taxes—city, state and federal—hit the average family a $310 lick here. The blow was only $210 in New Orleans.

And we spend more on food. Mr. Bagdon says Atlantans evidently buy better quality food.

Our conversation spun on for a time, and the BLS chief came up with a suggestion. "If you wish," said he, "I'll figure out the exact percentages Atlantans (based on the $3,000-$9,000 moderate family income breakdown) spend for various things." He said he'd call me back.

He did, and here's the way it goes:

Housing (including utilities), 32.5 per cent; food, 29.5 per cent; apparel, 9.6 per cent; transportation (including cars and all expenses thereof), 10.3 per cent; medical care, 4.2 per cent; personal care (cosmetics, hair tonic, etc.), 2.3 per cent; r e a d i n g, recreation (newspapers, radio, television, sporting goods, movies, etc.), 6.2 per cent; other goods and services, 5.3 per cent.

That's where your money goes.

A Crisis Met Early

Somewhere I read the other day that at the present rate of increase the population of the United States will hit 200,000,000 in the next 36 years. Golf players alarmed about glutted courses and locker room congestion may officially relax. Have no fear. Luke Morris already has the crisis met before it ever gets here.

One day—he isn't sure when—Luke had a vision. Up to this point of his career he hasn't been able to convert it into reality, but he had a vision. There flashed into his head, now nude except for a fringe of distinguishing brown, this vision of a telescoped golf course. He isn't a designer of golf courses by trade, and so all he could do was tell his friends and contemporaries about this new layout he saw in his head.

Bisher

And so he was telling about it at East Lake Country Club Thursday night, about an hour before Herb Graffis captivated the Golfer of the Year dinner audience, and about an hour and 10 minutes before Bobby Jones was saluted.

"This is revolutionary," Luke warned, as if prefacing a smutty story. "But understand that I was a pro for 23 years, up in Nashville. My brother Johnny Morris has just been retired as pro at Belle Meade in Nashville. I'm selling golf equipment now, so you know that I know my way around a golf course."

Then he explained his advanced age golf course, designed to consume less space and considerably less playing time. It also has certain features that may restore some of the character now severely lacking in the slice, the hook and kindred lousy shots.

—Three Greens, One Fairway

"The cost of land is out of sight, isn't it?" Luke said. "Construction costs have gone up just as much, too. Right? Everybody trying to save money and time, too, so this is the golf course that will do both. It should take up about one-third less space than the average golf course as we construct them today.

"You actually build a nine-hole course of this type on the same acreage that it takes for three holes of an average course.

"What you do, see, is play three holes on the same fairway. You use the same tee for all three greens. One hole will be a par three, one a par four and the longest a par five. You hit three tee shots in a row, of course declaring each shot before you make it. You play a No. 1 ball for the three hole, a No. 2 ball for the four hole and a No. 3 ball for the five hole.

"My, how that would save golf course costs and playing time. Think of it, a full 18-hole golf course on the same land it would take for nine. Why, you could almost have a golf course right in the middle of the city."

He confessed, the idea hadn't caught on too well. About this time Paul Lavin, the Adams Park professional, stopped by. "I know," Paul said, "that a lot of golf people have heard the idea. They think it's great. I like it. I think Luke's got an idea that somebody will put to use some day."

—A Duffer Will Still Be a Duffer

"You see," Luke said, "it costs so much to build a golf course now that it's hard to get anybody interested in the idea on an experimental basis. It just sounds like an awfully risky experiment.

"I've tried to talk to some of the people in the city about this John A. White course. It doesn't get any play and it might be turned into a real fine course with my idea. Think what a course like Piedmont Park could do with this kind of layout. You'd have a full-grown course right in the heart of Atlanta.

"Some of these days," he said, "somebody's going to catch onto this thing and turn it into a gold mine. I wish I had the backing to do it myself, but it's going to take somebody with more money than a traveling golf club salesman's got."

There is a trace of Rube Goldberg in this telescoped golf course idea. You can see four wild swingers on the tee distributing 12 golf balls from one side of creation to the other.

"I say," asked a valiant listener, "just what would this thing do for the duffer? Would it make the game simpler for him by having three holes to fire at the same time, or would it complicate matters by having three balls to hunt at the same time?"

"Sir," said Luke, "I'll make another honest confession. This course will do nothing for a duffer. Unfortunately, a duffer is a duffer on any kind of course, from carpet golf to Augusta National. Only the good Lord or a good pro can change him."

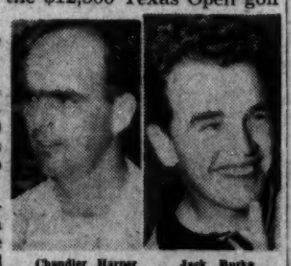

Souchak Retains Lead In Texas Open Tourney

Durham Pro Registers 128; Haas Trails by One Stroke

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 18 (AP)—Burly Mike Souchak scrambled to a 3-under-par 68 today to retain his lead at the halfway point in the $12,500 Texas Open golf tournament with 128.

Scores generally soared under pressure and a gusty wind.

The big man from Durham, N.C., who yesterday took the first-round lead with a record-tying 60 for 18 holes, had his troubles this afternoon but still was able to keep a stroke ahead of the field.

Chandler Harper — Jack Burke

Flying Freddie Haas, the Claremont, Calif., belter, turned in a 67 to breathe on the neck of the former Duke University football star as the field was cut to the low 60 shooters and ties. Haas' 36-hole total rested at 129.

Souchak, whose 60 tied the all-time PGA record for 18 holes and whose 27 on the back nine yesterday broke the record for nine holes, said he played a poor round today. He was off on his driving and his irons turned sour in the clinches. But big Mike said he was pleased with his score and figured he was fortunate.

In a tie for third place were Al Balding of Toronto, Canada, and Jack Burke of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., each with 131. Paul McGuire of Wichita, Kans., Bob Rosburg of San Francisco and John Barnum of Grand Rapids, Mich., were next in line with 132's.

Burke did a 65, one of the low rounds of the day, to pull into strong contention for the first money he won in 1952, but the low rounds of the afternoon were turned in by Walter Burkemo of Franklin, Mich., and Tony Holguin of Midlothian, Ill., another former Texas Open champion. They had 64's and it pulled both up to 133.

Souchak saved himself from losing the lead by his work on the back nine. He birdied 12, 13 and 14 in a row with some fancy putting and parred the rest of the way in.

The big man from the deep South started out by parring the first four holes and banging in a 10-footer for a birdie on five, but he bogeyed 10 when he missed the green with an erratic drive.

Jay Herbert, 67-66—133; Chandler Harper, 67-66—133; Walter Burkemo, 69-64—133; Mike Kirk, 65-68—133; Tony Holguin, 69-64—133; Johnny Palmer, 65-68—133; Shelby Mayfield, 67-67—134; Gene Littler, 67-67—134.

Reece Alexander, 65-70—135; Bo Whinger 68-67—135; Joe Moore Jr., 133; Joe Jimenez, 66-69—135; Billy Maxwell, 65-70—135; Jerry Kesselring, 68-66—135.

Other Qualifiers: Buddy Weaver, 69-67—136; Tommy Bolt, 67-69—136; Dave Douglas, 66-70—136; Peter Thompson, 67-69—136; John Jacobs, 71-65—136; Jimmy Clark, 70-66—136; Marty Furgol, 67-69—136; Bill Trembley, 68-68—136; Ed Foreman, 70-66—136; Bob Harris, 68—137; Al Besselink, 66-71—137; Tommy Martin, 70-67—137; Jack Mann, 70-67—137; Bobby Cuitt, 68-69—137 and Peter Allis, 64-73—137.

CHARLIE NORKUS SCORES WITH A LEFT HOOK IN SECOND ROUND

Sluggish Charles Decisions Norkus

Ex-Champ Deals Crushing Loss To Over-Matched No. 9 Heavy

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP)—Ezzard Charles came back from two beatings by Rocky Marciano, sluggish and wild but sharp enough to batter over-matched Charley Norkus for a unanimous 10-round decision tonight at Madison Square Garden. Charles weighed 191½, Norkus 195½.

The former heavyweight champion, now 33, dropped Norkus with a right hand to the jaw in the early seconds of the ninth round. The sturdy Norkus teetered to his feet at four, rocking backward, and stood while referee Harry Kessler counted the automatic eight.

Thre was no doubt about the lopside decision with referee Kessler scoring it 8-1-1, judge Jack Gordon 8-2 and judge Joe Agnello 9-1. The AP card was 8-2.

Boos rolled down from the crowd of 5,304 paying $17,230, apparently in disappointment that Norkus, a 4 to 1 underdog, didn't come through.

It would have been a shutout on Agnello's card if referee Kessler hadn't awarded the sixth round to Norkus because of a low blow. A borderline hook that landed when Norkus had his back to this observer cost Ezzy the round.

Charles bled from a gash over the right eye from the fifth round on, despite a smear of medication over the cut. Norkus dripped red from the nose in the last four rounds.

It was a crushing defeat for Norkus, the boy who calls both Jersey City and Port Washington, N.Y., his home, for he had won three in a row over Cesar Brion, Charley Powell and Roland La Starza to gain the No. 9 spot among the contenders.

GORDON MALLOY

An Alouette Now

Peahead's Alouettes Get Miami's Malloy

Walker Signs Makowieki, Pat Abruzzi for Montreal

Halfback Gordon Malloy, who carried a football from North Fulton High School to a great collegiate career at the University of Miami, will carry his professional business to Canada. Coach Peahead Walker of the Montreal Alouettes announced Friday that he had signed the Atlanta boy to a contract for the 1955 season.

Walker, who's spending the off-season in nearby Ben Hill, said Malloy's signed contract arrived by mail from Miami Thursday.

"I'm glad to get that boy," Walker said. "He's the kind of running halfback I've been looking for. Andy Gustafson tells me he's the greatest leader he ever had on one of his teams."

Malloy has just recovered from a knee operation. After the removal of a cartilage, doctors reported that the hinge he injured against Florida in the last game of the season, would be as good as new.

Miami sources said Malloy signed for a $500 bonus and at an estimated salary of $8,000. He'll report to the Montreal camp July 15. First, though, he'll give the healing knee a strong examination in spring workouts at Miami.

Malloy transferred to Miami after a short stretch at Georgia Tech. He truly blossomed out, both as a performer and a leader, with the Hurricanes and served his senior year as captain of the team. He was also the leading ground gainer with 492 yards.

He made some second team all-America selections and a number of all-South first-team picks.

Friday was one of Walker's good days. He also announced that he had signed to Montreal contracts tackle Al Mackowiecki, little all-America of Florida State, and Pat Abruzzi, a splendid halfback prospect from Rhode Island. Mackowiecki, a six-foot, 215-pounder out of Monaca, Pa., has been one of FSU's alltime great linemen.

PAN AM BERTHS AT STAKE

Nielsen, Santee, Dwyer Tangle Tonight in AAU Championships

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP)—Wes Santee, Gunnar Nielsen, Fred Dwyer and Co. go at it again in the mile tomorrow in the National AAU championships, but their performances for a change won't be of the foremost concern to the track and field set.

This is the big meet for the runners because the results, to a large extent, will determine who does and doesn't go to the Pan-American Games next month in Mexico City.

Thirty athletes are to make the trip and this meet is the final shakedown. Some, of course, are certainties like Santee, Dwyer and Mal Whitfield.

The squad will be announced Sunday. It will be determined by the results of last spring's IC4-A, AAU and NCAA championships along with this meet. Actually, the indoor test is where the candidates are to prove that they've kept in shape. Those who get beaten badly won't be taken along.

As for the Santee, Dwyer, Nielsen affair, each has won one race since they've made it a trio. This will be the rubber match.

Wes Santee — Gunnar Nielsen

Only five milers will be in the field since the AAU decided to cut the field to those who have done better than 4:15. Besides Santee, Dwyer and Nielsen, Bob McMillen of the Armed Forces and Lawton Lamb of Chicago will be included.

The meet record is Gil Dodd's 4:08.3, set 11 years ago, and that's almost certain to go. If Wes, Fred and Gunnar decide to move, the Dane's world indoor record of 4:03.6 could be erased.

In any event, this should be the most interesting race the three have had, if for no other reason than that Dick (Peter Rabbit) Ollen isn't in it. Ollen has been the pacemaker the last three weeks. Now they'll have to pull each other out.

All three know from experience that they can't run at a murderous pace and win. Yet Santee is aware of the fact that he'll have to shake Nielsen—he of the strong finishing kick—to pick up the marbles.

Dwyer, who won last week's race after watching Santee and Neilson run each other into the Madison Square Garden boards, probably will just sit back and let the others worry.

Whitfield will go in the 600 where he is favored. Audun Boyen of Norway should win the 1,000, while Horace Ashenfelter is the choice in the three-mile and Harrison Dillard in the hurdles. Rod Richard is the man to beat in the sprint and old Hank Laskau is the No. 1 man in the mile walk.

In the field events, it's Bob Richards in the pole vault, Herman Wyatt in the high jump, Parry O'Brien in the shotput and Bob Backus in the weight throw.

LSU To Interview Jim Corbett Today

Bengals Sift A.D. Candidates

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 18 (AP)—The Louisiana State University screening committee, seeking a new athletic director, scheduled three interviews tomorrow, including one with Jim Corbett, former LSU sports publicity chief.

Corbett, now with the sports department of the National Broadcasting Company in New York, is reported the leading candidate to succeed T. P. Heard. Corbett is scheduled to be interviewed at 9 a.m. (CST).

Chairman Sterling Gladden said the six-man committee also would interview Ed Khoury, former LSU boxing coach now living in Lake Charles, but declined to identify the third man.

Heard and head football coach Gaynell Tinsley were ousted by the Board of Supervisors Feb. 5. Paul F. Dietzel, 30-year-old former Army line coach, was named Wednesday to succeed Tinsley.

"We've got about 25 names on our list," said Gladden, "and we'll get to them as fast as we can. I can't say how many we'll interview. I wish I knew how long it will take. I hope not long."

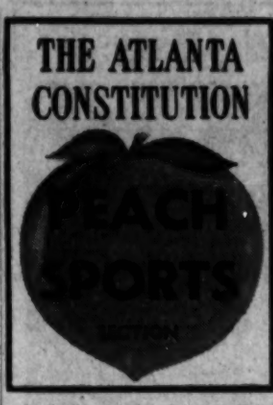

Other candidates for the job were reported to be J. T. Owen, LSU boxing coach; Harry Rabenhorst, LSU basketball coach and acting athletic director; Roy Mundorf, former athletic director at Louisville and ex-Georgia Tech assistant athletic director; Guy Nesom, former LSU athlete now in the health and physical education department at Northwestern Louisiana State College, and Henry Glaze, principal of Gonzales high school and former LSU boxer.

Meanwhile, the new football coach was scheduled to leave tomorrow for West Point to complete details of moving his family to Baton Rouge. Dietzel is married and has a six-year-old son and two-year-old daughter.

Dietzel said he would "probably get back about next Thursday and then we'll get down to staff meetings and start teaching each other football."

He plans to retain Tinsley's staff and bring in one new aide. But Dietzel said the new man probably "won't come down until after spring practice."

Spring football practice originally was planned by Tinsley to begin Feb. 28. But Dietzel said now it looked like it wouldn't start "until about the second week of March."

Griffin Boys Take Region 4-AA Crown

Fans Face the Issue

OUTLOOK WAS BLEAK FOR MARIETTA

BUT SCORE AND EXPRESSIONS CHANGE

Eagles Trounce Marietta, 57-49

By MORT PERSKY

Griffin's Eagles Friday night crowned their tournament achievements with a 57-49 beheading of Marietta at the Russell gym and flew into the Region 4-AA throne room scared by the Blue Devils but unscatched.

First-seeded Russell High bounced back to beat underdog Rossville, 66-58, in the consolation game by outscoring the Bulldogs, 20-0, in the first six minutes of the final quarter.

The balanced attack and height that marked Russell's ascent to the regular season title was the starred feature of Griffin's climb to prosperity after coming to the meet seeded low and bracketed with top-ranked Russell. Farrell McGuffey, 6-4 guard, paced the assault that bypassed Marietta, scoring 16 points.

But right behind him were Charlie Byars with 15, Jim Nance with 14 and Boyd Goss with 12, accounting for all the Griffin scoring. Fifth man Larry Neill didn't scratch on the score sheet but his 6-2 showed up on the floor, especially in a key pass interception that squelched a Marietta uprising.

Marietta, a team that has blistered other opponents with hot streaks, didn't start simmering until the middle of the third period.

And the region's most consistent scorer, the Blue Devil's' Tommy Pettett, couldn't connect until after the half. He finished the first half with five free throws and no goals at all.

Ken Turner brought Marietta's pot to a boil when, trailing 25-30, he pushed up a fast one to change it to 27-30. Next little Ken stole the ball and cripped it for two more, then intercepted and gave Pettett a scoring opportunity he didn't muff. When he drove under the basket to lay one up a minute late, Marietta led, 33-32.

Griffin's bursts from behind were less spectacular, more the result of steady work that began in Tuesday's round and didn't shut off until the last few seconds of play when Nance laid up the 56th and 57th points. The five stratospheric Eagle starters had only to parry the flip-up thrusts of 6-6 center Jerry Crook, potent but unaccompanied by the Griffin consistence. With a typical Pettett night from Pettett, who scored 13 points to trail Crook by one, Marietta could have given the underdog bracket a win.

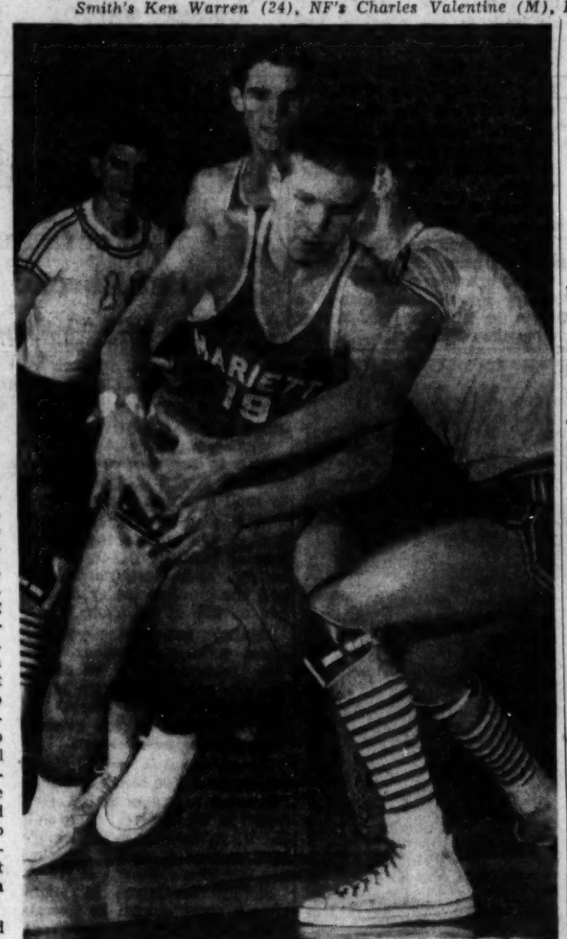

Fans nearly ruled out everybody else when Griffin and Russell so consistently took Tuesday openers to go into a Thursday semi-final against each other. Both were near defeat Friday, with Russell the closest, trailing 16-18, 35-38 and finally 46-52 before exploding in Rossville's face.

Jimmy Stanley, who foiled a Rossville zone with five straight corner sets and had 28 points to lead all the night's scorers, collaborated with Roy Quinn, who netted 14 tallies, and Neal Marchbanks in the rally-of-the-week. Only 1:15 was left in the game when set-shooting guard Bill Baker, worth 15 points to Rossville, tossed in the first last-quarter Bulldog goal. In that time the losers had dropped a 52-46 lead and lagged 66-52.

Doug Veazey, a jumping guard with a backlog of gridiron laurels, led the fourth-place team with 16. 6-7 center Emmett Wilson bagged 11 and wove long arms whose rebounding was instrumental in making the Rossville lead survive its life expectancy by three stanzas.

TUCKER, Feb. 18—Forward Jerry Hollingsworth's last-second field goal gave Conyer's boys a 46-45 victory over Clarkston Friday night, after Stone Mountain's girls routed Conyers, 53-34, in District Five semifinals.

Conyers will shoot for its second straight district crown against Milton's boys here Saturday night at 9 p.m. The Stone Mountain girls tussle with host Tucker for the girls' title at 7:30.

Conyers threatened to turn the boys' game into a rout, stacking up a 40-29 lead at one stage. But an aroused Clarkston team roared back and almost authored an upset.

Guard Jeff Autry was the big gun for Conyers and bagged scoring honors with 22 points. He also turned in a slick defensive game.

Cora Lee Driggers poured in 26 points in leading the flashy Stone Mountain sextet to its lopsided triumph. With Drigers and Ann Freeman, who netted 13 points, hitting from all angles, Stone Mountain settled the issue in the first few minutes. The victors enjoyed a 31-17 halftime lead and breezed home an easy winner.

ATLANTA BOWLS

METROPOLITAN TEN PINNERS BEGIN TITLE CHASE TODAY

By MORT PERSKY

The Metropolitan Atlanta Ten-Pin Tournament, minus couldn't-be-defending champion Marler and Thomas of Marietta, opens at 2 p.m. Saturday afternoon with 16 association teams and an uncertain number of non-league entries contending for the handicap-score championship on the Palace alleys.

Mort Persky

Marler and Thomas is now a member of the Marietta association, thanks to some between-tournament subdividing by the American Bowling Congress, and that may be a good omen for Maxwell and Hitchcock. The Maxwell outfit, still surging, shook off Miller High Life and took second place uncontested by taking a pair from Lehigh

Team champion should be decided by about 10 Saturday night, leaving Sunday for the doubles and singles play. Ezra Rolader, Miller's defending singles titleholder, has had an off year and may be toppled from his throne.

COULD BE CASH PEACOCK, Maxwell and Hitchcock roller who nudged over 596 pins for high individual series this week, will take the favorite's role before starting time. Or that big handicap could fall to Arthur Schulte, whose 233 was the top individual game. . . . Atlanta Club of the Deaf gave M and H a helping hand by beating Miller twice, and Randall Brothers out-tipped the Technicians in two for another important advance. The Woodmen and Postmen were idle.

DICK NELSON and Gene Sirbaugh comprise one of the Atlanta teams making a weekend trip to Charlotte's Southeastern Duck Pin Doubles Tournament. Two more are Truman Cowart-Billy Allen and Billy Tidwell-Jack Pearce. . . . A ladies' contingent will include Evelyn Traber, Carey Stegall, Allie Allen and Daneen Kilpatrick.

NO 400 SETS at Luckie Strike in the last seven days, which may mean the little-pin enthusiasts are saving their good nights for the Metropolitan competition, now set for next Saturday and Sunday.

ONLY ONE AA TOURNEY SPOT STILL IN DOUBT FRIDAY NIGHT

The lineup of teams for the Constitution - sponsored state Class AA boys' basketball tournament at the Municipal Auditorium here next week was virtually complete as a result of games played throughout the state Friday night.

Only one berth — Region One's fourth place spot—was still in doubt. Lanier of Macon, after absorbing a 67-56 defeat by Albany, still had a mathematical chance, but must defeat defending champ Baker in Columbus Saturday night to tie Albany for the fourth place berth.

Columbus and LaGrange will be the region's other two representatives.

Savannah Commercial, Savannah High, Richmond of Augusta and Benedictine of Savannah clinched Region Two's four places. North Fulton, Murphy, Smith and O'Keefe will form Region Three's contingent, while Griffin, Marietta, Russell of East Point and Rossville will fly Region Four's colors.

Murphy, N. Fulton Roll Into City Finals

Southwest, N. Fulton Girls Zip to Victory; Milner, Cochran Tally 28 and 25 Points

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

North Fulton's boys and girls, Murphy's boys and Southwest's girls stormed into the finals of the City League high school basketball tournament before a full house at the Bass gym Friday night.

Although the action was swift, and outcomes in doubt until late in all but one game, only Southwest's sparkling lassies were pushed to the last ditch for victory. In that one, Sandra Doyal's crip shot two-pointer in a "sudden-death" second overtime period put Northside on the loser's end of a 50-48 score.

Martha Tovell

Sue Stephens

Part-time workers Paul Cochran and Joe Milner were the big point producers in the victory marches of the Murphy and North Fulton boys. Cochran, playing three minutes less than the three quarters, poured 25 points through the hoops in Murphy's 72-55 stomp past O'Keefe.

Milner, sidelined for almost a quarter — like Cochran — as the foul assessments piled too high, bagged a solid 28 in North Fulton's 68-48 spurt past Smith. North Fulton's Ann Fulton hit for 26 points and outscored the entire losing team as Smith fell, 49-25, in the other girls' semifinals.

The girls' finals will begin at 8 o'clock Saturday night at the Bass gym with the boys' finals following at 9:30. The girls' third-place playoff will start at 5, followed by the 6:30 third-place boys' battle. The boys' games will determine which spots the four teams occupy in the seedings for The Constitution - sponsored state AA tournament, starting next Tuesday at the City Auditorium.

Cochran hit on a remarkable 13 out of 13 foul shots in sparking the Murphy boys. He did not star alone, though because, when he was forced to the sidelines, floor masters Jim Garner and Norman King took over the load and rammed in 14 and 13 points, Farrell Farr, the O'Keefe redhead, plunked in 16 points and departed via the foul route with 6:10 to go in the final quarter.

Bobby Mitchell, Donald Blanks and Doug Bailey netted 10, 10 and nine points for the O'Keefers, who trailed at the quarter poles, 18-17, 41-28, 51-33.

North Fulton, which led at the quarter marks, 21-9, 38-27 and 46-35, got big rebounding jobs out of Joe Marco and Bobby Wheeless while Milner was sidelined. They also blistered the nets for 16 and 12 points, but inability to cope with the 6-5 Milner was Smith's big problem. Soon Lamar Echols, Smith's 6-5 center, banged home 20 points but didn't have enough basket help to dream of upset.

The Southwest-North Fulton girls' game was one of the year's real classics and a nip-and-tucker all the way. Martha Tovell, Sue Stephens and heroine Doyal looped in 19, 16 and 15 for the winners—first one then the other taking over the lead role.

Betty Eason, with 20 points, carried the heavy clutch burden for Northside, but Jill Jordon and Beverly Ferris hit for 15 and 13. And it was Jordon's two perfect foul goals under heaviest pressure after the final buzzer that tied the final score at 44-44.

SATURDAY SCHEDULE

AT BASS GYM—5 p.m., Northside vs. Smith girls for third place; 6:30, O'Keefe vs. Smith boys for third place; 8, Southwest vs. North Fulton girls for championship; 9:30, Murphy vs. North Fulton boys for championship.

Vols, Tide Eye Lead As Kentucky Turns Back

Bulldogs Host to Brackeen; Jackets Invade Gamecock Coop

By JESSE OUTLAR

When shooting stops on the Southeastern Conference basketball front Saturday night, Kentucky may have company in the first-place roost.

Adolph Rupp's Wildcats, stepping outside the family to meet DePaul in Chicago, are assured a share of the lead. While the 'Cats are away, Alabama plays Tulane at Tuscaloosa and Vanderbilt entertains Tennessee in Nashville.

Triumphs in these vital games would lift Alabama and Tennessee into a tie with Kentucky and eliminate Tulane and Vandy from title contention. The Tide is a solid favorite to upend the Greenies and improve its loop record to 8-2. However, Tennessee is expected to find the going tough. With Babe Taylor back in the lineup, Vandy will be in better physical condition than at any time in recent weeks.

All 12 SEC entries will be in action, but none of the other games have any bearing on the title race.

Coach Red Lawson's defenseless Georgia Bulldogs will attempt to snap an eight-game losing streak against Mississippi in Athens. Denver Brackeen, averaging 27.6 per game, and his mates should find the Bulldogs' porous defense to their liking.

Georgia Tech takes on South Carolina in Columbia, hoping to avenge an early season 69-67 setback in Atlanta. Though they have shown vast improvement and downed Kentucky twice, Coach Whack Hyder's Jackets have been able to win two games in a row only once this season.

Auburn tangles with in-and-out Louisiana State on the Plain. With the leaders scuffling, Coach Joel Eaves' Plainsmen have a chance to move into a fourth-place tie.

Attention will be focused on Florida's Sonny Powell and Bob Emrich when the Gators lock grips with Mississippi State on their home floor. Powell recently became the third player in Florida history to soar above the 1,000 mark. Emrich, a flashy sophomore from Ashland, Ky., has cashed 308 points in 17 games and has a chance to set a new season scoring record for the Gators.

Racehorse Trojans Nip Campbell, 58-55

Westminster, Winder Girls Gain 4-A Semifinal Victories

By MICKEY LOGUE

COVINGTON, Feb. 18—Athens High's racehorse Trojains edged past Campbell's Bears from Fairburn, 58-55, in the highlight of Region 4-A tournament semifinal action here Friday night.

In the girls' division, Westminster of Atlanta won its 22nd successive victory by plastering host Newton County, 46-34, and Winder won handily over Elberton, 68-50.

Big Leonard Moen and his Campbell mates made a contest of it all the way and forged ahead once in the final quarter. But, capitalizing on superior speed, the Trojans regained the lead and held on to wrap up the decision.

Moen gave the Bears a rebounding advantage that caused the Athenians grief all evening. He also pumped in 22 points, tops among Campbell scorers, using a southpaw hook that the Trojans found difficult to defend.

The Tarkenton brothers—Francis and Dallas—performed their chores well for Athens, both in floor play and scoring. Francis finished high on the score sheet with 17 points and Dallas racked up 13.

Dorothy Moore registered 24 points for the Westminster sextet, and Patsy Heard, with 21, was high for Newton County. Winder's Helen Barnett, with 34, topped all scorers, and Elberton's Patsy Neal got 30.

AL, THE SPACE BANDIT

Wiley Weill Used Rocky's Ailing Nose Well

By ARTHUR DALEY

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

NEW YORK, Feb. 18—It was the slickest promotional stratagem since the shrewd Jimmy Johnston, the Boy Bandit, was conning newspaper men into giving his uncaged tigers yards and yards of undeserved space on the sports pages. There wasn't a better space-stealer than the impudent Boy Bandit. He was so smart and so publicity-conscious that he even requested in his later years a change in nickname.

ROCKY MARCIANO

"From now on," he said loftily, "I prefer to be known as the Venerable Vandal."

Jimmy was of the old school of fight managers. But just as folks were beginning to think that the breed had died off, along came Al Weill. The wily Weill is the proprietor of Rocky Marciano, the heavyweight champion of the world.

"I got the heavyweight title," says Weill, "and you don't find them things in the street." Apparently he doesn't even yield part ownership of the crown to the Brockton Blockbuster.

Just before the Rockabye Baby lulled Ezzard Charles into dreamland last September, he was fetched a clout on the nose. Although no such weapon was in evidence at the time, it looked as if Ez had slashed the Rock with a meat cleaver.

Blood gushed forth like water from a fountain. It was a wicked cut. As a matter of fact, it was so wicked that some fears were expressed that the nose might become an Achilles heel—if you don't object to the anatomical juxtaposition.

Weill could have announced, "It's all healed, boys," and let it go at that. Instead, the astute Alsatian made a production out of it. He arranged a safari to Grossinger, using a squad of boxing experts as his beaters—his drum beaters, to be specific.

Marciano was to be put to the supreme test, exposing his patched-up proboscis to the punches of Keene Simmons, a sparing partner. If the battered horn could withstand a rain of leather, the Rock would be ready to defend his title. It had the makings of a good story.

But the Brockton Blockbuster climbed into the ring for his "test" while wearing a helmet. To the derisively critical boxing experts it proved nothing—unless it was that Weill had borrowed a page from the Boy Bandit's scrapbook.

"It was a true test," insisted Weill yesterday. "I ain't kiddin' about this. The Rock wasn't wearin' no mask. He was wearin' the headgear he allus wears with nuthin' in front but sides to protect the cheekbone. I don't care what them guys said. He got bopped on the ol' schnozzola.

"After all, Rocky ain't no Jem Driscoll or Abe Attell which can get away from punches. He got hit all right. And if I didn't think he was fit, I wouldn't let him fight. You remember what I done with Marty Servo, don'tcha?

"He had that deviated septum and Eddie Eagan wouldn't let us fight no tune-up bouts before Servo defended his welterweight champeenship from Ray Robinson. I even had to hire a feller in an Army camp to go to ten rounds with him. But Servo wasn't right and five days before the bout with Robinson I pulled him outa the fight and he never fought no more again."

Weill carefully adjusted his halo and piously raised his eyes toward heaven.

"If them cuts open up," he said broodingly, "you're in trouble. And I can't take no chances."

At any rate, this arch manipulator milked the story for all it was worth—and then some. The Venerable Vandal would have been proud of him.

CARL BINGHAM (L) OF FAIRBURN AND ATHENS' GEORGE GUISLER BATTLE FOR BALL

Athens Won the Game, 58-55, and a Spot in the Finals of the 4-A Basketball Tournament

GOPHERS, HAWKEYES BATTLE DANGEROUS MICHIGANDERS

CHICAGO, Feb. 18 (AP)—The Big Ten basketball championship may be settled in the state of Michigan tomorrow.

First-place Minnesota (8-2) invades Ann Arbor to meet Michigan (4-4) in a nationally-televised matinee (3 p.m. EST-CBS) and second-place Iowa (7-2) faces Michigan State (5-5) at East Lansing tomorrow night.

Minnesota's Gophers are expected to have less trouble with Michigan's reserve-sparse Wolverines than the Hawkeyes will encounter against the dangerous Spartans.

A Minnesota triumph, coupled with an Iowa defeat, would give the Gophers a game and a half lead with three games left to play, one of them at home against the Hawkeyes Feb. 28. That situation would just about certify Minnesota's first title in 18 years, especially since Iowa must face Illinois at Champaign, Ill., Monday night.

Third-place Illinois, still in the running with a 6-3 mark, plays at Wisconsin (3-6) in another of Saturday night's round of four conference games.

Lawrenceville Ousted, 62-32; Cleveland Drops First Game

Special to The Constitution

BUFORD, Feb. 18—Jasper's defending state champs roared into the finals of the Ninth District, Class B girls' basketball tournament here Friday night with a convincing 62-32 rout of Lawrenceville. Cumming's sextet earned the right to meet the favored Jasper squad in the Saturday night showdown by trouncing Cleveland, 53-41.

For the Cleveland girls, it was a real heartbreaker; the setback was their first in 26 starts this season. They meet Lawrenceville in Saturday's consolation finals at 7:30 p.m.

The Jasperettes got away to a rousing start with four points in the initial eight seconds of play and from there it was no contest. The Lawrenceville lassies trailed by 37-7 at halftime and were never in serious contention. Donna Fortune salvaged individual scoring honors for the losers, however, with 26 points. Ethlene Prather bagged 19 for Jasper.

Rebecca Martin's 32 counters for Cumming were high. She was followed by teammate Mary Smallwood's 18 and Cleveland's Joyce Thomas and Sue Helton, who had 17 and 16.

Although most of the starters played the entire game the champs had little trouble in winning. The halftime score was doubled, 28-14.

All forwards shot in the double-figure mark. Pat Holcomb was tops with 21, Betty Stewart next with 19 and Patsy Epps third with 14. For the losers Kathryn Tilcher tossed in 16.

EDMONTON, Feb. 18 (AP)—Jerry Johnson, 20-year-old co-captain of the Texas Tech Red Raiders and split-T quarterback, has been signed by the Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union. In the 1952 season he racked up 1,027 yards passing and running for Texas Tech.

Ticket Sales Booming On Major League Front

Braves Hit Million Mark; Only Bucs Short on Bucks

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP)—Milwaukee's hunger for baseball tickets continues to grow, despite two full-year servings, with the Braves reporting a booming advance sale of 1,000,000 tickets. The club refused to divulge the number of dollars it has collected.

The New York Yankees, who proved to be human after all by losing the 1954 pennant after five straight, have a substantial advance of $1,125,000. That represents an increase over last year. There is extraordinary demand for all games with Cleveland.

Despite their flop in the World Series, the Cleveland Indians say they are running ahead of last year's pace when the club did around $1,000,000 in advance sales. The Indians claim they keep no comparative records.

With three clubs over the $1,000,000 mark, the leagues can afford to be optimistic about further attendance gains. In 1954, attendance jumped 9.7 per cent to 15,935,881.

Pittsburgh's last check of its figures a week ago showed the Pirates less than $2,000 under last year's advance. They had $326,811 so far as compared to $328,214 in 1954.

Washington had no figures available but reported requests for season tickets "have been very favorable."

Still glowing from their World Series success, the world champ New York Giants have passed the $500,000 mark and are still going strong. Last year they sold only $322,000 worth up to opening day. Brooklyn is running around $600,000, an 18 per cent increase over a year ago. The Dodgers, like many other clubs, put a limit on the number of tickets they sell in advance.

In Kansas City, they say they are too busy to strike a total but claim they already have passed the 304,666 tickets sold all last year by the A's in Philadelphia. Baltimore, which did a rushing business last year after the club was transferred from St. Louis, reports an advance of $550,000, compared to $470,000 in 1954.

The Chicago White Sox show a $410,000 advance, compared to $349,000 at the same period a year ago, and the Detroit Tigers give no figures but estimate a 10 per cent increase.

THOMASTON, Feb. 18—Marvin Fordham hit his stride Friday night and rammed home 32 points in leading Robert E. Lee to a 71-64 victory over a determined Columbus High five in Region 1-AA warfare.

Fordham, who previously had been something shy of expectations, was hotter than the gymnasium furnace in this one. W. L. Strickland had a quite a time for himself, too, with a 21-point spree, but it was Fordham's night and his sidekick was happy to step aside and let him take the spotlight.

Fay Crocker Leads by 3 In Bid for 1st U.S. Win

In Serbin Golf at Miami Beach

Argentine Veteran Adds 71 to 74

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 18 (AP)—A dark horse entry from South America—Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay—made a strong bid for her first U.S. golf victory today when she surged into a 3-stroke lead at the halfway point in the $5,000 Women's Open (Serbin) Golf Tournament.

Miss Crocker's booming drives, accurate iron shots and deadly putting produced a 71, three under par, for the 6,282-yard Bayshore Golf Club course for a two-day total of 145.

This performance hoisted her out of a second place tie into the lead, three strokes ahead of little Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., the 1953 champion moneywinner.

In third place, four strokes behind the South American girl, was Patty Berg, the Chicago veteran who went into a bad putting slump today after leading the tournament at the end of yesterday's first 18-hole round.

"I think I'm getting better," said Miss Crocker, who came to the U.S. and turned pro in January, 1954 "because I wanted to compete against the best women golfers in the world."

She hasn't won a tournament in this country yet but in 24 tries last year she finished out of the money only three times.

The low scores: Fay Crocker, 74-71—145; Louise Suggs, 74-74—148; Patty Berg, 73-76—149; Betty Jameson, 76-75—151; Jackie Pung, 75-77—152; Babe Zaharias, 76-76—152; Bonnie Randolph, 77-77—154; Betty Bush, 78-77—155; Betty MacKinnon, 79-76—155.

Doerun Girls To Meet Arlington For 2nd District, Class C Title

Special to The Constitution

ALBANY, Feb. 18—Doerun, the defending champion, and Arlington, unranked before tourney play began, will collide at Meigs Saturday night for the Second District, Class C girls' basketball championship.

Doerun, winner last year over Jakin in the District finals, advenced to the title round again this year by beating Hopeful Thursday night in the finals of the Eastern Division tournament, also at Meigs, 59-43.

The victory was the third of the tourney for Doerun, previous victims having been Pavo, 30-21, and Meigs, 63-30. Hopeful had reached the division finals by downing Sale City, 62-60, and Coolidge, 53-50.

Meanwhile, in the Western Division meet at Attapulgus, Arlington, unseeded, knocked off three seeded teams enroute to the division championship.

The first victim for the Travelers was second-ranked Climax, 48-44. Third-seeded Attapulgus then fell, 61-59, with fourth-seeded Baker County of Newton toppling in the finals, 57-44. Baker earlier had eliminated Damascus, 53-52, and top-ranked and defending division champ Jakin, 44-38.

The two surviving teams, Doerun and Arlington, rested Friday night before their clash Saturday.

Meanwhile in the class B girls' tournament at Camilla, heavily favored Donalsonville, Blakely, Sumner and Pelham survived the quarterfinals and made it to Friday night's semifinals.

Donalsonville, winners of 26 straight regular season games without a loss, whipped Quitman and Camilla in early games, while Blakely turned back seeded Sylvester in an upset and then bounced Morgan. Sumner had to beat only Norman Park to reach the round of four while Pelham, second-seeded, advanced by beating defending champion Morven in the first round, and then ousting Hahira.

The finals are scheduled for Saturday night with Donalsonville a heavy favorite. The Seminoles, who lose only two girls off their entire squad this year, went to the district finals last season.

The Region 1, Class A girls' tournament also reached the semifinals Thursday night as Tifton and host Adel joined Americus and Cordele in the round of four. Tifton whipped Cairo, 58-45, and Adel turned oak Fitzgerald, 55-38. Cordele and Americus had gained the semifinals Wednesday evening.

The finals in this tournament are also scheduled for Saturday night with no particular favorite.

Byrd Sees Trade Bill OK, Endorses Russell Here

By JIM MONTGOMERY

Senate passage of President Eisenhower's controversial reciprocal trade program was predicted in Atlanta Friday night by U.S. Sen. Harry Byrd (D-Va), whose committee will set hearings on the measure next week.

The bitterly-fought proposal was passed by the House Friday afternoon.

Byrd, who is chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said the House battle was much closer than he had expected.

SPEAKS HERE

In an interview preceding a speech he made at the 53rd annual meeting of the Atlanta Freight Bureau, the Virginian revealed that he will call a meeting of his committee for Wednesday to set a date for hearings on the liberalized trade bill.

The 67-year-old Byrd, fourth-ranking Democrat in Senate seniority, also put in a plug for Georgia Sen. Richard Russell.

Asked who would get the 1956 presidential nod at the Democratic convention in Chicago, Byrd replied, "Sen. Russell is the best-qualified man available."

He indicated that he would support the Georgia senator again, as he did in 1952.

But the economy-minded Virginian, now serving his fourth full term in the U.S. Senate, will not support the proposed Congressional pay raise.

Calling it ill-timed in view of the federal budget deficit, he said he would vote against the measure when it comes to a vote in the upper chamber Monday.

Some 425 members and guests at the Freight Bureau meeting at the Atlanta Athletic Club heard Byrd reiterate his oft-voiced demand for economy in the federal government to help bring about a balanced budget—an end to "our fiscal folly."

He outlined four steps "to preserve out solvency and the value of our money:"

1. Balance the budget by reducing non-essential spending.
2. Do not lift the $280 billion debt ceiling.
3. Reduce taxes after cutting expenditures.
4. Short of a national emergency, call a moratorium on all new spending programs until the government shows an actual surplus.

FIGHT PATERNALISM

Byrd said American citizens should fight federal paternalism to help return to the states the taxes and functions which have been "usurped" by the central government.

Freight Bureau President Arthur L. Harris reported that 1954 was a very successful year for the organization—particularly in its freight consolidation activities.

Twenty-five of the group's 26 directors were reelected. James R. Bachman, a charter member, retired and was named director emeritus. Three new directors elected were C. S. Broeman, president of American Bakeries; Louis Long of Rich's Inc., and M. L. Weiss of Montag Bros., Inc.

Swamped Market Weathers Selloff

Gains Run 2 to 4 Points After List Takes Beating

By RADER WINGET

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP)—A major selling wave hit the stock market today, but it bounced back from the effects of the hard blow and closed higher.

The advance actually was the best of the week and put the market up again to peak levels.

The day started quietly and somewhat hesitantly, the pattern the market has been following all week.

Recovery from the state of affairs began soon with the radio-televisions, steels, and aircrafts well out in front of the rise. The railroads and airlines also had a big hand in the strong showing.

LONDON REPORTS

That continued until near the start of the final hour. It looked like a routine session. At that time reports were circulated in Wall Street of the heavy fall in the London Stock Market. They were gloomy there about the possibility of higher interest rates, weakness in the pound sterling, and other localized conditions.

Selling began in the stock market here and gained speed until the tape was swamped and unable to keep pace with actual transactions on the floor. At the worst, there was a lag of six minutes, and the congestion lasted about half an hour. Prices were flashed directly from the floor to the ticker to keep the public informed of trading developments.

Selling spent itself quickly, and the congestion cleared with prices not only showing improvement from their lows but also in many instances surpassing their previous high marks.

UTILITIES UNCHANGED

At the close, prices were up between two and four points in many instances while losses usually were small.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 70 cents at $159.90, equal to the all-time high established last Tuesday. Yesterday's average was off 10 cents.

The industrial component gained 50 cents, railroads were ahead $1.30 at a new high since 1930 of $125.10, and utilities remained unchanged.

Brisk Rally Lifts Cotton

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP)—Cotton futures closed 30 to 85 cents a bale higher today.

Heavy evening up operations by traders in nearby March, prior to first notice day, and switching from that delivery to later months were the features. Toward the close, the market rallied briskly as nearby March strengthened on a broader demand which in turn induced professional short covering throughout the list.

Griffin Thanks Assembly For Enacting All Planks

Governor Griffin speeded the departing General Assembly Friday with a high noon thank-you speech for "enacting into law every single plank" in his campaign platform.

Addressing the House and Senate separately, the chief executive commended the members for their sincerity of purpose, co-operation and patience, and read the roster of administration measures passed this session.

These included the rural roads bill, workmen's compensation, sale of automobile tags at courthouses, commercial oil well bonus provision, repeal of the state toll road act, farmer's market bill and finally the school segregation bill.

The governor said in his "20 years on Capitol Hill" he had never seen a General Assembly "more eager to do a good job" and he thanked the members for their patience "while the administration program gets under way." He cited the state's industrial growth and said, "Georgia is on the threshold of unprecedented progress—the future of Georgia is most bright."

Shortly before the doorkeeper heralded the approach of the governor and an escort committee of representatives, Heber Ladner, secretary of state of Mississippi, was introduced in the House and made a brief speech. He quoted from Henry Grady's "New South" speech and commended Georgia on its progress.

Governor Griffin arrived in the House in the middle of the debate on the Home Rule bill.

Wine Tax Measure Voted Down in Senate

Georgia wine must continue to be composed entirely of Georgia grapes in order to get low tax rate.

The State Senate decided Friday to kill a bill which would have permitted the mixing of foreign wines or brandies in Georgia wine—at the low tax rate.

Pure Georgia wine is taxed at 50 cents per gallon. Imported wine is taxed at $1.

Seismologist Testifies in Suit Here

The testimony of a Harvard University seismologist, who did work in connection with the first test explosion of the atom bomb figured prominently in a civil suit completed Thursday in Fulton Civil Court.

The professor, Dr. Lewis Donald Leet, testified in a damage suit brought by property owners near the Fulton County quarry at Bellwood.

The property owners sued the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Company, Inc., for damages to their residences caused by a dynamite blast at the quarry Jan. 15, 1951.

The plaintiffs were Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Fleming, 1009 Margaret Pl., NW; W. A. Austin, 14 Matilda Pl., NW; T. R. Flinchman, 1244 Nyles Ave., NW, and R. B. Mathews, 1011 Margaret Pl., NW.

The property owners contended that a DuPont employe supervised the blast which caused cracks in their homes.

Dr. Leet testified he made seismographic tests here in April, 1952, and his measurements showed insufficient shock waves to have damaged the houses.

The jury returned a verdict in favor of DuPont.

Crockery Strengthens Hope Of Finding Old Mission Site

Constitution State News Service

HARRIS NECK, Feb. 18—Georgia archeologists Friday continued digging optimistically here into what is believed to be the site of a 16th Century Spanish mission.

The archeological expedition headed by Lewis Larson of the state Historical Commission has been investigating this area for the past three weeks in the belief that it once was the grounds of an Old World religious outpost.

To date, Larson and 10 diggers have uncovered several pieces of pottery, jars and some magolica, native Spanish crockery of the 16th Century era, which they believe came from the ancient monastery.

Larson has also discovered some post holes which possibly served as corner markers for the Spanish mission house. Experimental trenches have been dug in several places by the investigators.

The site of the excavation is between Darien and Midway Church. The land was recently leased by McIntosh County to the U.S. Navy to be used as a site for an airfield.

According to C. E. Gregory, state historical commissioner, the relics thus far discovered on this site have proved most encouraging to Larson and his team.

Larson said he hopes to identify the period of the pottery and relics found so far by Monday.

Legislature Curbs Politics In 4 Agencies

The Georgia Legislature moved to reduce politics in four agencies before adjourning.

It passed bills putting a legal ban on the revenue commissioner, purchasing agent, Veterans Service director, and members of the State Highway Board from running for public office within a year after their terms expire.

This is designed to prevent heads of these agencies from using their state jobs to build up personal political machines.

As the Senate put the finishing touches on the bills, Sen. Walter Harrison of Millen offered a humorous amendment which would prohibit any appointive or elective state official from running for office within the year.

$50 Pension For Firemen Is Approved

Georgia firemen will get a $50 a month pension under a bill passed by the General Assembly shortly before adjournment Friday.

While the move for the pension created a controversy and a House investigation into an $8,000 fund raised by the firemen, the Senate approved the bill with little discussion, 39 to 1.

The Senate tacked on an amendment which would put the one per cent tax on "extended coverage" insurance policies, as well as on "fire insurance" premiums. The House accepted this amendment.

CONTRIBUTE $5

Under terms of the bill, a fireman will contribute $5 a month into the pension fund and the state will tax fire and extended coverage insurance premiums one per cent. The fireman would be eligible to retire on a $50 a month pension at the age of 60, after serving 25 years.

Atlanta Sen. Everett Millican told the Senate that newspaper publicity on the firemen's $8,000 fund forestalled a few lawyers getting most of the money. He said a fireman told him some time ago the Georgia Firemen's Assn. had to raise $10,000 to get the legislation passed.

PROBE SET OFF

It was charges like this that set off the House investigation. The House probers found that Zack Cravey Jr. was regular attorney for the Firemen's Assn. and the association leaders sought to employ John Sammons Bell, chairman of the State Democratic Party, as an additional attorney.

The investigators said they found the firemen guilty of no wrong-doing, but deplored the wording of telegrams sent by the association seeking contributions from firemen.

Millican supported the bill in the Senate. However, he predicted a request will be made to hike the pension to $75 next January.

$50,000 Trust Fund Willed to Negro Servant

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

An Atlanta woman has set up a $50,000 trust fund to support a faithful Negro servant for the rest of his life.

The fund was established in the will of Mrs. Flora McDaniel Pitts, who died several weeks ago. Her will was recorded Friday in the office of Fulton County Ordinary Eugene Gunby.

The fund was set up for Louie Hawkins, 'who had been reared by the McDaniel family since the age of 6 and had "served the family since childhood."

INVEST MONEY

Hawkins, about 70, now lives in a servant house at the rear of the Pitts home at 1326 Piedmont Ave., NE.

Mrs. Pitts specified the trust fund be set up at the First National Bank here. The bank was ordered to invest the money in bonds and to pay the net income from the investment in monthly installments to Hawkins.

The will also provided for Hawkins' funeral and burial and requested that two plaques be erected in Negro churches at Calhoun in his memory following his death.

The will states the metal plaques are to be placed in the Allen Chapel Methodist Church and the Friendship Baptist Church.

Gordon Mitchell, attorney for the family, said Hawkins had been "faithful to the family all during his life and had never given any trouble." Mitchell also said Hawkins was an accomplished musician despite lack of formal training, and was a faithful church worker.

SERVICE CITED

Mitchell said he understood Hawkins also served with the family at Calhoun before it moved to Atlanta. He said Mrs. Pitts felt that because of the servant's faithful service she should care for him for the remainder of his life.

The servant also was left a cash bequest of $2,000.

Mrs. Pitts also provided for her three sisters. A sister at Portland, Ore., Mrs. Virginia Glover, was left 50 shares of stock in Crown Cotton Mills at Calhoun. Miss Nettie McDaniel, who was named executrix, was left the Pitts home on Piedmont avenue and the family home at 211 Line St. in Calhoun. She and the other sister, Miss Julia McDaniel, are to receive the remainder and residue of the estate in equal shares after establishment of the trust.

A $3,000 fund also was established to maintain the grave of Mrs. Pitts' son, Henry McDaniel Pitts, at Calhoun.

Senate Bars Anti-Red Division for Patrol

There will be no security division created in the State Patrol to probe Reds.

This plan was dropped by the Senate Friday, when Sen. Everett Millican, author, discovered the bill went further than was desired. Where the original idea was simply to transfer records from the Law Department to the State Patrol, the bill actually would have given the patrol broad powers of investigating subversive activities.

Polio Vaccinations Likely In State Primary Grades

Georgia's 250,000 first and second grade pupils will get polio vaccine shots this spring—if the national vaccine study report is "favorable."

Dr. T. F. Sellers, State Health Department director, told a meeting of local health representatives Friday the Polio Vaccine Evaluation Center will report on the effectiveness of the Salk vaccine in April.

If the vaccine is okayed, enough of it for 9,000,000 school children — including Georgia's first and second graders—will be made available immediately. It will be furnished free by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, but consent of parents will be required before their children are vaccinated.

Additional vaccine will be available on prescription for those not eligible for free vaccine.

A committee was named to handle details of the polio vaccination plan in Georgia. Members include: Dr. J. F. Hackney, Fulton County Health Department; Dr. Ernest Thompson, Walton County health commissioner; Dr. O. F. Whitman, State Health Department, Albany; Dr. John E. McCroan, State Health Department; William H. Ferry, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis; J. M. Gooden, State Educational Department, and Miss Lillie M. Avrett, State Health Department.

Don't Change Accrediting ---Assembly

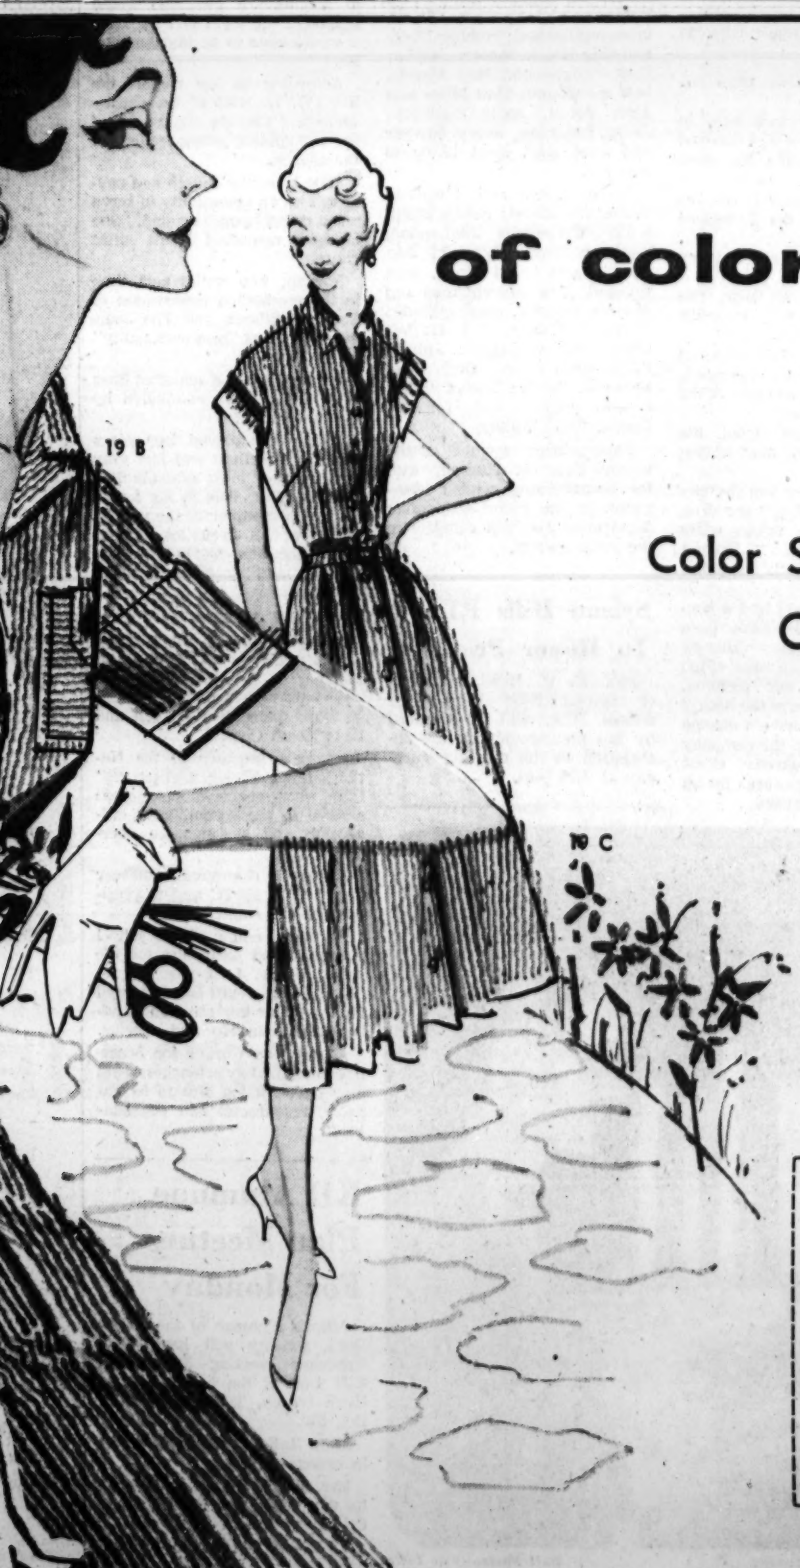

The Georgia Legislature Friday asked the Georgia Accrediting Commission to maintain the present average daily attendance requirements for accredited high schools next term.

The House and Senate adopted resolutions asking the requirement remain at 60 instead of raising it to 100 average daily attendance.

The resolutions said the higher requirement would force high schools in many small communities either to consolidate or lose their accredited standing.

Ice Skaters' Shop Talk Is of Brides and Books

By YOLANDE GWIN

Shop talk backstage at the auditorium this week runs to brides' books, trousseaux and anniversaries.

Of the 10 married couples in the ice follies, two have a special interest in Atlanta where the show is being held this week.

One is Audrey Johnson, who was busy mending some clothes prior to curtain time.

"I love Atlanta and was hoping my husband, Bobby, and I could get here this year in time to celebrate our first anniversary which was Feb. 9. But we were one day late."

MET, MARRIED HERE
Audrey Johnson

She and Bobby met here in 1953 at the ice show and married here last year while the show was here.

They were married by Dr. Robert Burns at the Peachtree Christian Church.

And does Bobby cut a fancy figure on ice, too?

"Oh, no," said his wife, "he just makes the ice." He's the engineer for the company.

Then there's the Cinderella girl of the follies, Betty Goodhart, who married the manager of the show—Skee Goodhart.

A former fashion model, the skater is now in her third season with the company.

"But let me show you the pictures of my wedding," she said, pulling out a large bridey white album from a trunk. "I haven't been married a month yet; won't be until Feb. 28.

"We really haven't had a honeymoon — yet. We have been right with the show. Harvey (Harvey Weber, a member of the cast) made all our pictures, which we have here in the book."

The couple may have a chance to honeymoon when the company gets to its headquarters, Coral Gables, Fla.—a sunny spot for an ice skaters' honeymoon.

YOUR STARS TODAY

DAILY GUIDE—Some of the changes, breakage or general stress of the recent events may have left you with a little job of estimating the results, and if you happen to choose to do it today, you may find some things which can be happily salvaged.

This is a good time to decide to take what you have and use it to advantage. Do a little checking over your assets; you may be pleasantly surprised.

This is an especially good day for revaluation for those born in the third week of December, August or April. The latter, the Arians, can take the initiative in putting through a new order of things. The Aquarians (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) have a weekend in which they have a slight edge, so they should be up and doing. A social evening for all, so plan some pleasant entertainment.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, PISCES! Watch financial deals right now. Next month be cautious in traveling, correspondence and dealing with neighbors or near relatives. This could be a very creative period for you. Socially you have a chance to expand, meet new and unusual people.

An improvement in your working conditions is possible after May and through the summer with some big changes beginning to make an appearance at the end of the year.

At the end of June you could develop some project dear to your heart. In fact, this is a time when you should be making the most of your opportunities as you seem to be in a better position to do so than most people.

A Rhyme a Day

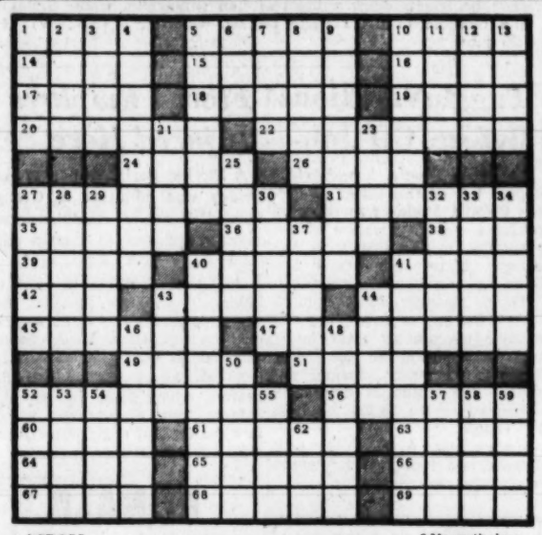

"Dior's spring line does not give an inch at the bust and the belt strikes anywhere between the knees and the bustline, if there were any bust."—News item style note.

It's just a crazy thought of mine . . . but I think women should design . . . the clothes that other women wear . . . and though it's none of my affair . . . I cannot help but feel a man . . . is sure to upset nature's plan . . . when he attempts to change the lines . . . of women with his queer designs.

He does all right with motor cars . . . or buildings reaching for the stars . . . with submarines and battleships . . . but when he flattens out the hips . . . and tries to straighten out the curves . . . he certainly gets on my nerves . . . and though he calls the thing a "dress" . . . in my opinion, it's a mess.

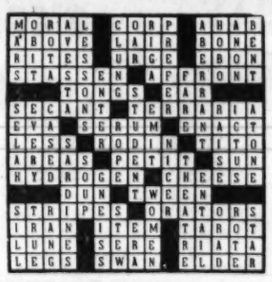

That man's a traiter to his sex . . . who takes a line that is convex . . . and stretches it until it's flat . . . and someone ought to tell him that.

Chou Is Greater Threat Than Soviet, Lucas Says

By BOB WILLIMON
Constitution Staff Writer

"Communist China's Premier Chou En-lai is a greater threat to world peace than Moscow," former Sen. Scott Lucas, Illinois, said in an address at the Elberton Chamber of Commerce banquet Friday night.

Principal speaker at the 31st annual affair, Lucas said he "does not believe Russia is calling the shots in the troubled waters off Formosa.

"China," he said, "cannot be classified as a satellite of Russia like Rumania, Bulgaria and Poland, despite the five-year friendship pact with Moscow," he explained.

Lucas, an Illinois senator for 11 years prior to his defeat by Sen. Everett Dirksen, said he believes Chou will never relinquish hope of obtaining the real prize in the East—Formosa.

In his address, heard by an overflow crowd of some 1,500 in Elberton's bunting-draped armory,, he said negotiations with Communist China must continue despite the fact that a negotiated settlement could be well beyond political reality.

Lucas, who was introduced by former Gov. Herman Talmadge, said, Nationalist Leader Chiang Kai-shek has us "over a barrel" in insisting no further evacuation of the off-shore islands of Quemoy and Matsu take place.

"I am satisfied," he said, "that if this course continues it is almost a certainty that our forces will be drawn in to help the nationalists defend those islands."

FBI in Twiggs Probe

The Federal Bureau of Investigation Friday began investigation of the case of a 44-year-old Negro man who said he was shot, threatened with death and beaten by a white man in Twiggs County. Sheriff Earl Hamrick of Twiggs County said he also was investigating the case involving John Cornelius of Macon. Cornelius said the trouble followed an automobile accident in which he lost control and struck a gasoline pump in front of the white man's store. He said he offered to pay for the damages, but the white man, identified as Joe Bailey, shot him and later threatened to kill him and then badly beat him. Sheriff Hamrick said Cornelius had attacked Bailey. He said he had several charges against Cornelius. . . . Approximately 175 Boy Scout officials from Georgia and Florida will attend an all-day training session Saturday at Ft. Benning.
